Academy Get-together: An experience in brotherhood

In this issue ► FIRST COLONY IN CANADA

just what do you see?

- GREETINGS, PLEDGES! We welcome you to our chapter. You have almost completed that long, hard, tedious task of pledgeship and will soon be in that glorious heaven of activeland. You have studied your lessons well; you have taken your tests; you have learned all about how to show everyone around you your splendid image. The chapter will expect you to show virtue, diligence, and brotherly love. 'We want everyone to see brotherhood,' isn't that what they say?

Now take a good look at your fine chapter. Go on—take a good long look. Do you see VIRTUE or do you see a "do as I say, not as I do" attitude? Do you see DILIGENCE, or is everyone down on everyone else's back, constantly shirking responsibilities and blaming their inefficiency on their brothers? And last, do you see a true brotherhood or do you see a pseudo-fraternity relationship—brothers showing brotherhood because of a ritual they once said and never understood? Just what do you see? Have VIRTUE, DILIGENCE, and BROTHERLY LOVE been forgotten now that the pin is on the shirt?

Perhaps it is about time that the chapter reevaluated its convictions. Brotherhood and the qualities that coincide are not tangible articles that can be brought out to view on the spur of the moment—if you have to see brotherhood, then, brother, you are not experiencing brotherhood. The feelings described in the ritual are not for display purposes; they are standards on which life is based; and unless one lives up to these standards, then he will not experience the full fraternity relationship.

It has been said that the entire fraternity is based on several passages found in the Bible in the Book of Matthew: "Thou shalt love thy God with thy whole heart, soul, mind, and body. And thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Does our fraternity follow this? Are we seeing or are we experiencing VIRTUE, DILIGENCE, and BROTHERLY LOVE? You decide.

This message was written by a pledge at Kentucky during the latter part of his pledgeship. At the time, members of the pledge class had just returned from their pledge trip and were quite disenchanted with some of the practices that they found among the chapters including their own. The pledges found a lot of good things, they said, but when they were asked to be thoughtful and critical they returned to questions concerning the meaning of brotherhood. Did the undergraduate members actually understand the meaning of brotherhood? The above message by a Kentucky pledge raises the question and at the same time answers it.

Since his election as Grand President in Cleveland last August, Brother J. E. Zollinger has been busy traveling throughout the Sig Ep domain. His itinerary has taken him from Florida to Oregon and back, hither and yon, installing several new chapters, speaking at Founders' Day dinners and other anniversary observances, and just looking in on chapters for a helpful visit. In the picture above he is being greeted at Baker by Chapter president Bill Betz.

Voice of the Fraternity

Readers are urged to communicate. Sig Ep viewpoints from the "grass roots" of the Fraternity are valuable and interesting and not otherwise obtained and thus form a vital part of the Journal.

Lost Badge Returned

During the autumn of 1967 I had the honor of representing the Culver-Stockton chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon at the Grand Chapter Academy and Conclave in Cleveland. While I was there I learned many interesting things concerning the operation of Sigma Phi Epsilon as a national organization and I was overwhelmed by the warmth of brotherhood of the attending brothers and the national officers. Alas, my visit was marred by the loss of my badge! My lack of the financial means with which to replace it made the loss even more disheartening.

I had all but resigned myself to the fact that I would never see my badge again. However, when I returned from the Sig Ep Midwest Basketball Tournament, on March 11, I was contacted by brother Reno L. Calcari of Bradley University. Brother Calcari and I had met at the Conclave, and he was with me the night I lost my pin. He inquired if I had seen the February issue of the Journal; I informed him that I had not, and he told me to look on page 2. Some one had found my badge!

To say the least, I was overwhelmed at the possibility of recovering my badge. I read and re-read the item. "Found: One Badge"; it could belong to no other person! I contacted brother Frank D. Spiegleberg at Ohio Lambda, Kent State University. Brother Spiegleberg assured me that he would send me the badge on March 12, air mail special delivery, and he did.

I can never find the words which will express my ecstasy at the arrival of a long-lost friend but I do find words to express my deeply heart-felt appreciation to all those involved in the recovery of my badge and especially to brothers Calcari and Spiegleberg for their thoughtfulness and brotherly concern.—E. GLENN WEDDING, Missouri Epsilon, Culver-Stockton College, Canton, Mo.

Recognition

It was extremely gratifying to note the fine publicity given our outstanding National Whistle Committee. I'm sure we all agree that the Fraternity's high-achieving committees (relatively speaking) should receive every bit of recognition in the JOURNAL that they deserve.—JAMES R. BERNARD, District Governor, 330 West Brambleton Ave., Norfolk, Va.

Ritual Effectiveness

I was interested to read the article by Jack Whitford in the last issue of the JOURNAL on the relevancy of the Ritual for the contemporary undergraduate.

That ritual can be a meaningful form of symbolic communication among individuals is well established. The question which to me seems more important is how meaningful is our Ritual as it now stands. It is the manner in which the message is delivered that should be of concern to us and which should merit frequent review. If as conservative and seemingly unchangeable an institution as the Catholic Church has found it appropriate to adapt her rituals to modern man and put them into contemporary language, one wonders if our Fraternity might not benefit from a similar reassessment of the current Ritual.—JOHN C. PETRICCIANI, M.D., Rensselaer, 145 Hodge St., Buffalo, N.Y.

The Journal

We have too long disregarded the JOURNAL. The new chapter administration hopes to rectify this situation, because we realize the value of such a magazine.

Please accept our apologies for the past and our articles for the present.—MARC ALAN INNES, Public Relations, Ohio Wesleyan Chapter, 10 Williams Drive, Delaware, Ohio.

Our chapter was not represented in the last JOURNAL. Therefore, I am submitting all our material this time as instructed in the copy call for May.

We at Kent are trying to finance a new house. Naturally, JOURNAL coverage would help us in our appeal to our alumni. I hope the articles and pictures meet the standards and can be included in the May issue.—PHILLIP L. JOHNSON, Chapter Secretary, Kent State, 202 N. Lincoln, Kent, Ohio.

I thought the February JOURNAL was full of material that should reach the hearts of all who read it.—FRANK H. HAMACK, past Grand President, 18116 Andover Road, Edmonds, Wash.

I wish to refer to the February JOURNAL, page 68, to the caption under the cut of Mississippi Beta's first-place Homecoming float. Never in the course of the proud history of Sigma Phi Epsilon at Mississippi State has the integrity and originality of the noble Sons of the South who make up our chapter been brought into question. How dare you insinuate that ours was a "Not so original theme"?—DOUGLAS L. ADAMS, Mississippi State, 317 East Main St., Starkville, Miss.

► Michigan Tech Sig Eps and Mississippi State Sig Eps both used locomotives with theme, "Drive 'em Loco"; both won. ED.

Testament of Brotherhood

On Sunday, February 11, 1968, at the Mississippi State Sig Ep house, I witnessed an event I shall long remember. For years the activities that took place at this time were kind of a hazy vision in the mind. Just being able to attend again the Sigma Phi Epsilon ritual ceremony was to revive a thrilling experience. To witness my own son's initiation was an emotional experience that you will only realize if you are fortunate enough to have your flesh and blood become a legacy and participate in his initiation. My fondest wish for each of you is that some day you may have a son or sons and that he will, of his own volition, pledge, and subsequently become a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

It was most impressive to capture the feeling of brotherhood that is evident within the chapter. Sig Ep at Mississippi Beta seems to have all the requisites that have made it such a grand fraternity over the years.—DAVID W. WILKINS, 5157 Woodlark, Memphis, Tenn.

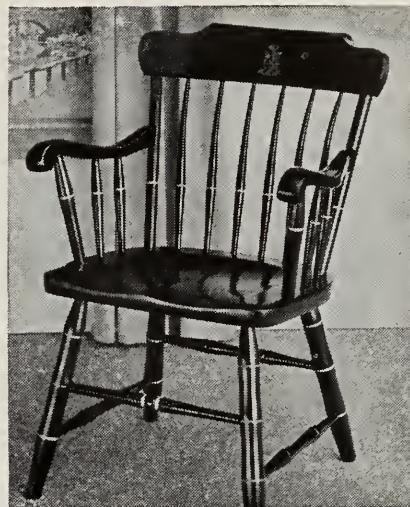

Thank-You Notes

Through the columns of the JOURNAL I wish to express deep gratitude to all the many chapters and individuals who so thoughtfully remembered us with beautiful cards at the Christmas season. Mrs. Carter and I both appreciate your kindness more than we can express.

We also want to thank the chapters that have honored us with invitations to their numerous social functions. We wish we could have had the strength to attend each one! God bless all of you and keep you in His care! We love all Sig Eps.—Devotedly, WILLIAM HUGH CARTER, Virginia Alpha-Founder, Salem, Va.

The Michigan State Sig Eps would like to extend a special thanks to the Louisiana State University Sig Eps for the fine Southern hospitality shown them on their visit to the South over term break.—BILL LANGS, Michigan State, 526 Sunset Lane, East Lansing, Mich.

CANADIAN COLONY

By CHARLES N. WHITE, JR.

CHAPTER SERVICES DIRECTOR

ON MARCH 26, 1968, Staff Representative Richard W. Myers installed Sigma Phi Epsilon's first colony in Canada. Thirty-one men at the University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, Canada, were pledged to Sigma Phi Epsilon and began operating as a colony.

The installation was the culmination of efforts which began in February 1968 from correspondence between Headquarters and the University of Windsor. On February 25, Staff Representative Robert C. Lynch made a preliminary visit to Windsor and discussed the formation on Windsor's campus with Dean of Men Gabriel De'Luca. Bob's efforts led to a Greek introduction night on March 5 which began the colonization effort. Staff Representative James D. Fein presented Sigma Phi Epsilon to the assembled rushees. He was assisted by Edward A. Devlin and John C. Erb, undergraduate leaders from the University of Detroit chapter. Personal-contact rush continued throughout the week, led by Ed Devlin, John Erb, and other brothers of Michigan Delta. By Saturday, March 9, 12 men had been pledged to the Sigma Epsilon Colony. This could not be official until the colony's petition was accepted by the University. While awaiting the University's approval, Ed Devlin continued working with the 12 original members and, through an effective personal rush, 19 outstanding men were committed to Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Greco, Tom Prinzing, Bob Lindquist, and Jim Osborne.

The establishment of Sigma Phi Epsilon's first Canadian colony is indeed momentous, for with eventual chartering at the University of Windsor, Sigma Phi Epsilon will become an international fraternity. The spirit of brotherhood was evident in this colonization. The success attained would not have been possible without the intense devotion and hard work of the brothers from the University of Detroit chapter.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was instrumental in formulating fraternity policy at Windsor and joins Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Sigma Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Pi Kappa Alpha as the first fraternities on campus. This is good company.

The University of Windsor can make the claim that it is one of the youngest and yet one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in Canada. Assumption College opened its doors on February 10, 1857, in the parish of Sandwich, the latter (founded 1767) being the oldest parish in Canada west of Montreal. Except for brief periods during the first twelve years when it was in turn under Jesuit, Benedictine and secular clergy, Assumption College was operated by the Basilian Fathers until 1956. At this point the College ended its affiliation with the University of Western Ontario and obtained its own university powers through an Act of the Ontario Legislature.

In the period 1956 to 1962, the unique situation existed wherein the Basilian Assumption University of Windsor embraced in affiliation a non-denominational Essex College, offering programs in Applied Science, Business Administration, Nursing, Mathematics and the Natural Sciences—Holy Redeemer College, national seminary of the Redemptorist Fathers—and the Anglican Canterbury College offering courses in Philosophy, Religious Knowledge and Mediaeval History.

The University of Windsor was incorporated by the Ontario Legislature in 1962 accepting Assumption University in federation. During 1963 and 1964 affiliation agreements were made with Holy Redeemer College, Canterbury College and the new Iona College (United Church of Canada). A notable innovation in 1963-64 was the establishment of an interdenominational undergraduate Department of Theology, now offering courses in three theologies (Anglican, Roman Catholic and United Church) but available to others as the need arises.

In the few years since the University of Windsor came into being, growth has been very rapid. The enrollment of full time students has more than doubled with corresponding increases in academic and administrative staffs. The new undergraduate courses in Social Work, the new departments of music, Drama, Fine Arts and Asian Studies, the new Faculty of Law, additional postgraduate courses at both the master's and doctoral levels are some examples of the surging growth of program. Several residential, teaching and research facilities, a student centre, a library, a new administrative centre, and a very modern Physical Education and Athletic complex have combined to form a compact, functional, and attractive campus.

Traditionally, about half the student population at the University is from out of town and represents not only the various regional areas of Canada but many overseas countries as well as a large number who come there from the United States. The spiritual and cultural values from such a cosmopolitan environment are important byproducts of education.

ACADEMY '68

The Memphis State campus will provide the setting for the Fraternity's national leadership program on August 24-28

SIGMA PHI EPSILON'S fifth national leadership program, the Academy, will be held at Memphis State University, Memphis, Tenn., on August 24-28, 1968.

Selected for its outstanding facilities and central location, Memphis State is readily accessible by all modes of transportation. Living accommodations and Academy sessions will be in the recently completed Central Towers, a coeducational residence-hall complex for 1,050 students. The 10-story dormitory is fully air-conditioned and offers luxury lodging with carpeted, four-man suites. Comfortably furnished lounges, located on each floor, are available for class sessions and informal discussions. Food service and quality are excellent with "all you can eat" standard on every menu.

Memphis State University, founded in 1909 as a state normal school, is exemplary of the rapid growth and progress of higher education, with an enrollment today of more than 15,000 students. Located in the cotton capital of the world and the heart of the South, Memphis State incorporates solid tradition and inquisitive youth to produce an exciting atmosphere for learning.

In this setting, registration for the 1968 Academy will begin Saturday morning, August 24, and continue throughout the day. That evening the program begins with a reception affording all present an opportunity to meet the National Directors and the Headquarters staff. Immediately following, a buffet-style banquet will officially commence the busy three-day schedule.

The National Leadership Committee, under the direction of Baldwin-Wallace alumnus James W. Frazier, is developing an outstanding faculty to present programs and ideas in chapter operation. Areas included will be rush, pledge education, scholarship, alumni relations, Ritual, public relations, finances, Headquarters, and others as requested by those attending. Program Development Director Donald L. Tanner is coordinating all arrangements. The entire program will be centered around the theme "Knowledge"—knowledge of fraternity management and knowledge of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Nowhere but at the 1968 Academy can this knowledge be imparted to so many present and future leaders of your chapter.

Two official participants will represent each undergraduate chapter. These will be the president and an underclassman demonstrating leadership potential. Fees for these men were paid by the chapter in March.

Others desiring to attend are urged to do so. Each chapter is invited to send as many officers, committee chairmen, and future leaders as possible. The registration fee is $30 if paid before June 1, 1968, and $35 after June 1; included is four nights' lodging, ten meals, and participation in all sessions. Further information and/or registration materials are available from: Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters, P.O. Box 1901, Richmond, Va. 23215.

Chapter counselors who have never attended an Academy are reminded that special sessions are conducted for them and district governors. An excellent opportunity is available for discussing the roles and responsibilities of chapter advising.

Additional highlights in 1968 will be displays of chapter scrapbooks, newsletters, and rush brochures; an exhibition of institutional furniture for chapter houses; fraternity supplies store; awards presentations; talent night; athletic activities; outstanding speakers; and meetings with Sig Ep brothers from across the nation. 1968 ACADEMY—MEMPHIS STATE UNIVERSITY.

Walkin' Fo' De Kake

WHEN the University of Vermont's 71-year-old annual tradition, Kake Walk, was over, the Sig Eps walked off with the most sought after prize of the weekend of February 15-17, the Lechnyr Trophy.

The brothers won the Marston Cup for their first place skit, they took third place in snow sculpture, and third place in walking with Stan Bean and Dave Angus. These two walkers had been practicing their kicks and steps since September.

James Wood was sculpture director, Paul Blum skit director, and Samuel Bain one of the three planners of this great University tradition that has done so much to keep student spirit healthy and alive at Vermont.

Western Kentucky Sig Eps Perform

By MARK DOSSEY

FRATERNITY is brotherhood, parties, and pledgeship. It must be since these words are associated most frequently with fraternal college organizations.

Western Kentucky Sig Eps want to add one more very important link in the fraternity chain of definitions, that being "work." Kentucky Delta managed a newsworthy accomplishment this past fall by erecting a completely destroyed bridge on the Hilltop at WKU. The bridge had historical significance dating back to the Civil War, and it had long been of great sentimental value to Western students.

However, a group of misguided vandals took it upon themselves to rip down the old

Western Kentucky Sig Eps not only are proud of the bridge they rebuilt for alma Mater, but they have enough confidence in their work to conduct a live test after the work is finished.

relic following a football game this year. They disassembled it completely, leaving a nasty spectacle of vandalism as they fled.

When one brother came up with the idea of rebuilding the bridge, the chapter responded with the desire necessary to accomplish this goal.

After receiving permission from University President Kelly Thompson to attempt the task, the brothers proceeded to find, cut, and trim no less than eight cedar trees for the bridge construction. Desire soon gave way to industry, as the inexperienced but eager Sig Eps followed the direction of a school carpenter assigned to guide the work.

The pictures cannot thoroughly represent the chapter's total effort and accomplishment. That inner feeling of a contribution to the campus may be expressed only through that Sig Ep smile on camera day.

How heavy these logs are and how long are unreported facts;
however, a lot of Sig Ep power

RICHMOND, '39

SIGMA PHI EPSILON's new Headquarters is situated on a 1.61-acre tract just off Interstate 95 and Route 301 north of Richmond, Va.

Five years of planning and study of other fraternity headquarters went into designing the building, which embodies elegance, tradition, and function in its design. The physical requirements of the Fraternity's daily business operations are generously met with a distinctive office arrangement for efficient administration.

The visitor enters the handsome foyer with its elegant chandelier and circular staircase. The guest register, on a Jefferson Alphabet table, is located at the foot of the stairway. The Fraternity flowers, violets and roses, are displayed beneath the Coat of Arms, flanked by the Fraternity flag and the American flag. The corporation charter of Sigma Phi Epsilon is displayed on the north wall.

At the left of the foyer is the office of Executive Director Donald M. Johnson, Kansas.

Alumni Services Director Frank Marrs discusses his program with Don Johnson.

He is responsible to the National Board of Directors for the daily direction of the Fraternity. He coordinates the activities of the executive staff and supervises the 23 paid professional employees. He is also executive director of the William L. Phillips Foundation, as well as treasurer of the National Housing Corporation.

The pulse of daily chapter activities may be found in Chapter Services, located to the right of the foyer. Chapter Services Director Charles N. White, Jr., Western Michigan, supervises the work of the secretarial staff and six traveling staff representatives. Office equipment of the most modern type is available for the daily transaction between Chapter Services and the many volunteer workers throughout the nation. A Magnetic Tape Selective Typewriter (MTST) provides automated letter-writing facilities.

The office of Frank R. "Randy" Marrs, Alumni Services Director, Marshall, is located directly to the rear of Chapter Services. This new position was created by the Fraternity in order to meet the need for expanded organization and participation by alumni in Fraternity affairs.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was the first national fraternity to utilize IBM equipment for maintenance of membership roles and accounting. The IBM department, located along the rear of the building, is under the supervision of

All Fraternity financial and membership records are coded and stored in the IBM department. Additional computer equipment on order will enable the Fraternity to offer additional and faster services.

The second floor of the new Headquarters contains the Archives, the Fraternity Library, the Board of Directors' room, and the Staff Representatives' office.

The visual history of the Fraternity is displayed in the Archives. On display are portraits of the Founders, purchased and donated by chapters and individuals, and the desk and memorabilia of William L. Phillips. A gallery display holds convention pictures, a pictorial history of Fraternity Headquarters, the pictures of JOURNAL editors with magazines of their eras. The Fraternity is accepting donations of historical pictures and/or memorabilia that would be useful in the Archives.

Adjacent to the Archives, the Fraternity Library will contain the written history of the Fraternity. Three types of materials will be collected: (1) books written by Sig Eps; (2) books and files of historical value about each chapter; and (3) books of general interest regarding college students, personnel, etc. The Fraternity is now accepting books or materials which will aid in the completion of the Library.

A number of headquarters of national fraternities have outstanding libraries, some of them endowed by well-to-do alumni who believe in the great value of an outstanding book collection at headquarters. Admittedly such a library can be a unique asset.

The Board of Directors' room is located on the north end of the second floor. A complete set of bound issues of the JOURNAL and other reference materials are displayed in the bookshelves. The furniture accommodates intimate groupings while as many as 16 may be seated about the conference table. Weekly staff meetings and, normally, meetings of the National Board of Directors, are held in this room.

The National Board of Directors is comprised of successful and respected businessmen, educators, and professional men. Matters of policy, both financial and administrative, are determined by the Board, and recommendations are made to the Grand Chapter. The Board meets at least twice a year.

The second floor hall is lined with framed photographs of all Grand Presidents. Midway through the hall is the staff representatives' office. The Fraternity currently employs six staff representatives, each responsible for a province and the chapters located therein.

Each staff representative is provided with his own desk in this working office. From September through May, the staff representatives travel extensively, visiting each chapter at least once and most twice each year.

The stockroom, mailroom, pressroom, and bindery are in the basement. Machines in the stock room de-collate and de-carbon IBM continuous forms. Modern equipment is available for daily handling of mail volume reaching as many as 1,000 pieces. A new Heidel-

Stevens Tech's Exemplary Housemother

It was a poor chapter when Mom Rettig came there . . .
through her gifted leadership
it has become one of the best

A HOUSEMOTHER, if chosen properly, can be the impetus behind a chapter's successful operation. Relations with both college and community, as well as alumni contacts, can be greatly aided by a truly effective housemother. To accomplish her potential fully, a housemother must be brought within the inner circle of friendship.

At Stevens Tech, Mrs. Grace Rettig with her enthusiasm for Sigma Phi Epsilon has more than any other person brought New Jersey Alpha to its present position as an Outstanding Chapter of 1967 from almost nonexistent status.

Mrs. Rettig was born in Astoria, Long Island, in 1912, and was educated in public schools and in a finishing school as a home economics major. In late high school she began dating a Stevens Tech student and member of the then national fraternity Theta Upsilon Omega (which merged with Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1938), George P. Rettig. They were married in September, 1935, and eight years later George Rettig became a professor of mechanical engineering at Stevens, and an active member of what was by then the New Jersey Alpha Chapter. When the chapter took a sharp fall to six members in 1959, Professor Rettig was among the most active men in attempting to reorganize the group, when he passed away suddenly in October, 1959.

With the image of her late husband's goals for the chapter and her close association with many faculty and administrative personnel, Mrs. Rettig agreed to become housemother. Walter Steinman, '21, then president of the Alumni Board, worked closely with her and made a number of personal loans to the chapter in hope of future development and progress.

Mrs. Rettig, who had been married 25 years without children, now found herself with 12 new fraternity members chosen in a special rush to rebuild the chapter. She began to start a Sig Ep kitchen immediately with the help of Allen Vautier, who was engaged as the new steward. She has made a profit on the kitchen operations each year since its founding.

Mrs. Rettig donated all of her husband's books as a nucleus for the chapter library, now known as the George P. Rettig Memorial Library. The chapter's physical facilities were soon put into good shape due to her leadership. Rush has been successful each year since Mrs. Rettig appeared. New brothers were now present, and Mrs. Rettig turned her mind toward organization within the house. In 1964 she organized a Mothers' and Wives' Club whose members raised revenue for house improvements through card parties and teas. Today the kitchen with a staff of three employees earns a consistent profit.

Mrs. Rettig is mother, adviser, and disciplinarian for all members. They come to her to have their temperatures taken; they come with major academic difficulties, as Mrs. Rettig in most cases knows the proper faculty or administrative person to contact; they come to discuss romantic problems; they come to get suggestions for house improvements; and they come simply to chat. It is thus easy to see why every Sig Ep at Stevens has a rare sweetheart in Mrs. Rettig. Mom attends all weekends, many parties, and is an important reason why so many alumni love to return to the chapter house. It is impossible to forget her, even after one departs from college, and a constant stream of alumni go in and out the chapter house's red front door to visit her. Mom has also been instrumental in fashioning gentlemen out of some diamonds in the rough, and thereby has helped bring the house a reputation which puts it at the top of the list in the administration and faculty's mind.

What Mrs. Rettig has done for Sig Ep at Stevens other housemothers, well chosen, can do for other chapters of the Fraternity which happen to need the kind of leadership produced at Stevens through Mrs. Rettig's teaching.

FORTY-SEVEN members of Sigma Epsilon Colony at Chico State College, California, were initiated as the California Iota Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon on February 10.

Thursday night at 9:40 p.m., February 8, members of the chapter met the Grand President, J. E. Zollinger and his wife at the airport and escorted them to their motel room.

dent and Mrs. Zollinger kept an appointment with G. Robert Standing, director of Resident Programs and Activities, followed by a tour of the campus. At 12:00 noon, on the same day, a luncheon was held at the house for our guests. This was followed by an afternoon appointment with Dean Donald Gerth. At 4:30 p.m. Dr. Robert E. Hill, president of the college, held a reception in the Sig Eps' honor. Dinner for all 20 house members and the Zollingers took place at 6:00 p.m.

February 10, at 7:30 a.m., Saturday morning, the first of the 47 initiations began. Brothers from Sacramento, Davis, San Jose, Berkeley, Lewis and Clark, and Seton Hall took part.

Saturday evening began at the Elks Hall in Chico with a tremendously cooked Prime Rib dinner. The dessert was vanilla ice cream roll with a heart-shaped pink center! At 8:00 p.m. Toastmaster Lindsay Swain, chapter president, opened the program. Speakers included the president of Chico State College, Dr. Robert E. Hill, who spoke on the "Fraternity and Furor in the Campus Scene," his main point centering around the "renaissance of the fraternity system." Included in the program also was Bob Kittredge, past president of the IFC, who spoke on "The Fraternity and Today's Students." G. Robert Standing, director of Resident Programs and Activities, and Robert E. Allen, president of the Alumni Board, commented briefly. Dick Sathre, past president of the chapter, spoke on the chapter's history.

Grand National President J. E. Zollinger described the accomplishments and the role of Sigma Phi Epsilon before presenting the charter to President Lindsay Swain, who accepted it for the 47 members of Sigma Phi Epsilon's 170th chapter. Staff Representative Steve Sullivan formally installed the officers.

They are: Lindsay Swain, president; Terry Eyrich, vice-president; Jim Bremer, controller; Howard Abrams, secretary; and Mahlon Malcolm Schallig Hile, recorder.

Awards presented included: Bill Clark, as the most outstanding pledge; and Tom Bone, for services to the fraternity. A District plaque standing four feet high with the fraternity crest on it in bronze was given the chapter.

The program ended with a benediction by Grand President J. E. Zollinger. A dance followed.

The School

For more than 75 years Chico State College has served the northeastern California region as a liberal arts and teacher education college. Its broad curriculum of general and professional education has attracted students from all parts of the state and from many neighboring states and foreign countries.

Originally founded as a normal school in 1887, its status was changed in 1921 to a state teachers college, and in 1924 the State Legislature authorized it to become a four-year college. In 1935 legislation changed the title to State College, and in 1949 it was authorized to grant the master's degree on completion of a fifth year of work.

The College is located in the heart of the Sacramento Valley, which is renowned for its tasty almonds. The world's largest man-made, earth-fill dam is located in Oroville, 25 miles from the campus.

The Colony

In the spring of 1966, 19 men formed a group with the intention of creating a new fraternity on campus. After examining some of the more progressive fraternities on other campuses, the members decided they would attempt to create a bond of brotherhood in an atmosphere that would be academically and socially stimulating. Essential to this philosophy, was the belief that some of the traditional fraternity activities such as Hell Week would be a detriment to this brotherhood. For these reasons Sigma Phi Epsilon was chosen and colonized on June 5, 1966.

Those initiated include: Lindsay Swain, Rancho Cordova; Terry Eyrich, Paradise; Jim Bremer, Woodland; Howard Abrams, San Leandro; Mahlon Malcolm Schallig Hile, Knights Landing; Richard D. Sathre, Fairfax; Tom Bone, Lafayette; Dick Johnson, Ukiah; Mike Matze, San Mateo; Bob Harmon, San Leandro; Jim Sands, Clearlake Oaks; Loren Gross, Richmond; Don Willis, Chico; Dave Ward, Woodland; Dave Jarvis, Eureka; R. The Transfraternal Bowl Takes a Round Trip

A UNIQUE Sig Ep trophy was presented for the second time in its unique career on February 10 at the installation of a chapter at Chico State College.

Jointly established by the undergraduate chapter associations of District 30 (parts of New York and New Jersey) and District 28 (northern California chapters) The Transfraternal Bowl is a challenge cup awarded in periodic interdistrict competitions.

The first Transfraternal challenge was offered by District 30 when the Bowl was established last fall: man-miles at the dedication of the new Headquarters. District 30 won with 23,000 round-trip man-miles to nothing.

Mike Green, chapter counselor at Berkeley, renewed the competition in a midnight New Year's Eve telephone conversation with District 30 Governor Bruce Hasenkamp and Assistant Governor Ron Fenolio, with a second man-mile challenge tied to attendance at the Chico State installation.

Five men from District 30 made the trip: Undergraduate Chapter Association Secretary Chuck Hogancamp, Rensselaer; Roy Johannessen, past president at Stevens; Bill Cisielski, past president of the Seton Hall colony; and Bob Sobieski and Dave Tribiano, also of Seton Hall. District 30 easily won the second, 34,150 round-trip man-miles to 9,840.

The third Transfraternal challenge will be keyed to attendance at the Academy at Memphis State in August.

baugh, Santa Rosa; John Aguilar, Stockton; Dan Gersbacher, Stockton; Frank Barba, Carpinteria; Gary Clayborne, Hayward; Bob Koch, Chico; Bill Paquette, Sunnyvale; Dean Edwards, Novato; Robert Austin Whittaker, III, Sacramento; Pat Lyn, Sacramento; and Jim Dakin Veit, Stockton (the only alumnus to be inducted).

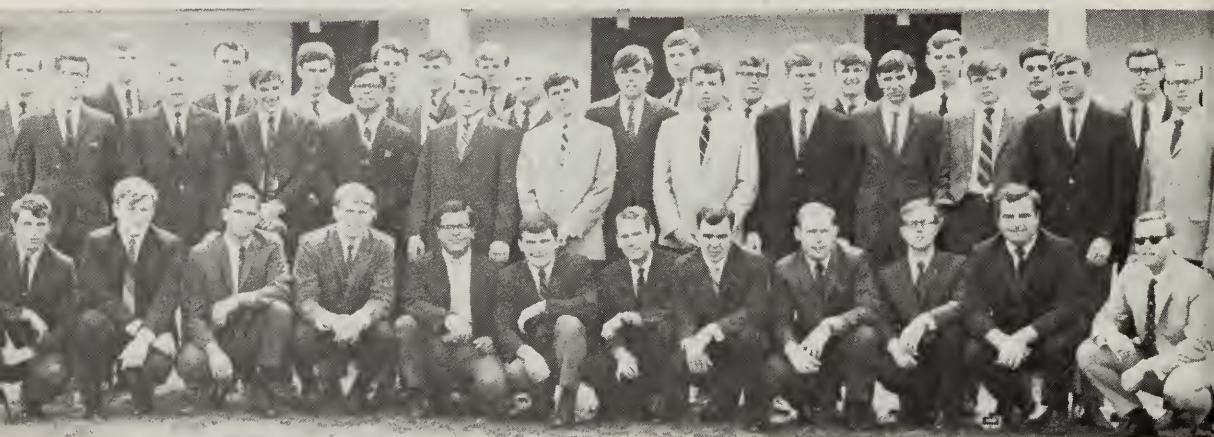

Growth in the first two years was exemplified by eager participation in school events. In Pioneer Week, 1967, members of the colony placed first in the float competition in the fraternity division and third over-all in the fraternity division. They were also intramural volleyball champions and league basketball champions. They won fall sing in the two years they have entered the competition. The fraternities' B-grade point average academically places them well above all other men's organizations.

A new house was purchased in July, 1967, which is occupied by 20 members.

The goal of our members for the future will be as it has been in the past: to maintain a strong grade-point average, demonstrate to others the true meaning of "brotherhood," keep a close union with the other fraternities, and update the Greek system so that it will be honored and respected throughout the nation.

Missouri Theta is installed March 30

By JAMES STEVENS

PRESENTATION of a charter to the colony at Central Missouri State on March 30, creating Missouri Theta of Sigma Phi Epsilon, climaxed a year and two months of rewarding work for 48 initiates.

The local Kappa Phi Epsilon became a Sig Ep Colony on February 8, 1967. Striving for "brotherhood through education," the men have partly attained their goal: every one of the men initiated found an educational experience in the recent ritual ceremony. President Howard Gross states, "All the men of Missouri Theta now feel even a closer tie with Sigma Phi Epsilon and are eager to continue in their efforts for betterment of themselves and our fraternity."

Staff Representative Jim Fein arrived on campus Thursday and started the weekend's activities. He was an inspiration to all the men.

Initiation teams were provided by the chapters at Kansas, Missouri, Missouri-Rolla, and Southwest Missouri State.

The men in order of initiation were: James Turek, St. Louis; Howard Gross, St. Louis; Roger Pauk, Warrenton; Joseph Burke, Pitman, N.J.; Richard Price, Whiteman Air Force Base; Michael Fisher, Ottumwa, Iowa; Stuart Conrad, Montrose; Donald Combs, Warrenton; Paul Doelker, Whiteman Air Force Base; Charles Slater, Chillicothe; Richard Bender, Elizabeth, N.J.; Ronald Trout, Ottumwa, Iowa; Larry Kruse, Hermann; George Root, Blackwater; Gregory Ziller, Kansas City, Larry Armer, Vienna; George Sellers, Whiteman Air Force Base; Jack Augustine, Indianola, Iowa; Marvin Blevins, Higginsville; John Carroll, III, Great Falls, Mont.; Don Goers, Lexington; Stephen Otto, Westphalia; Michael Wark, St. Louis; Kenneth Cope, Sidney, N.Y.; Franklin Shuman, Shamokin, Pa.

Also James Stevens, Concordia; Garnett Joseph, Midland Park, N.J.; Roger McFall, Kulpmont, Pa.; Allan Amos, Ottumwa, Iowa; William Anderson, St. Louis; William Baltrusaitus, Beale Air Force Base, Calif.; Raymond Boyd, Wellsville; Mike Davis, Utica; George Garcia, Whiteman Air Force Base; Gregory Garcia, Whiteman Air Force Base; Terry Gleason, Excelsior Springs; Steven Kiniry, Raytown; Jerry Meisenheimer, Pilot Grove; Daniel Sallee, Chillicothe; Greg Onstot, Lake View, Iowa; Wesley Smith, Excelsior Springs; Alfred Watkins, III, Maplewood; Raymond Young, Warrensburg; Joseph Woytowich Kulpmont, Pa.; Robert Goetz, Jr., Warrensburg; Garrie Michael, Kansas City; Paul Swafford, Jr., Independence; Wylie Trabert, Knoxville, Iowa.

The installation banquet and ball concluded the formal activities. These events were held in the College Union and brought many distinguished guests. These included Bedford W. Black, former Grand President; John W. Hartman, National Director; Warren C. Lovering, CMS President; George McBroom, assistant dean of men; Dean of Administration Peters; Dean of Instruction Tiezen; Reed Kepner, District Governor, and James Fein, Staff Representative. Sponsors of Missouri Theta present were Todd Shirley, Mark DeKorte, and Joe Blackburn. Campus fraternities represented were Alpha Kappa Lambda, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Sigma Epsilon, and Theta Chi. Sororities represented included Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, Sigma Kappa, and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Guests were welcomed at the banquet by Harry Mitchell, past president and toastmaster. After the roast beef dinner, Howard Gross, newly elected president, gave a brief history of the local fraternity. The presentation of a sweetheart pin to Mrs. Blanche Haynes, housemother, brought a standing ovation for her.

Outstanding service plaques were then presented to the chapter sponsors.

A sign of welcome is displayed in front of 55-man Sig Ep section of fraternity complex.

Presentation of the charter by John Hartman brought smiles and a standing ovation from the members of Missouri Theta. President Gross accepted the charter and responded: "Although we have gone a long way since our charter on campus as Kappa Phi Epsilon, we realize that it is just the beginning."

Complimenting the chapter on their affiliation with such a fine national organization, Warren C. Lovinger, CMS president, stated that the Missouri Theta chapter was a credit to the CMS campus.

A speech by Bedford W. Black, former Grand President, charged the new chapter to accept the ideals of the Fraternity earnestly. He said, "if it is to be, it is up to me," meaning that if Missouri Theta is to succeed, it is up to each individual and he is charged with a responsibility to himself and his chapter.

Closing the banquet, a prayer was offered by the Very Rev. Msgr. Ernest J. Fiedler.

At the formal ball, Missouri Theta's Sweetheart, Miss Donna Parsons, Alpha Gamma Delta, was crowned and presented with a loving cup.

The Campus

Central Missouri State College was founded in Warrensburg, in 1872, with the motto "Education for Service." Boasting a student population of 10,000, it is expected to attain university status in a short time.

A building program, boasting a $10,000,000 budget is under way. A new science building has been completed as has a new wing on the library. Two more dormitories are also under construction.

Fraternities began in 1920, when the mother chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma was established here. Ten fraternities are sheltered here: Acacia, Alpha Kappa Lambda, Lambda Chi Alpha, Alpha Phi Alpha, Theta Chi, Sigma Pi, Sigma Tau Gamma, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Phi Sigma Epsilon. Sororities include Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Alpha Sigma Tau, Delta Zeta, Sigma Kappa, and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

The Colony

In the fall of 1965 James Turek and Howard Gross saw a need for a fraternity with a new set of ideals. Gradually they established the purposes and principles of the new fraternity. Kappa Phi Epsilon was chosen for the name. The first rush brought the fraternity 25 members.

Scorning the practice of hazing, the local grew and felt a common brotherhood. Many of the other fraternities started to follow some of the Kappa Phis' practices. Seeing that there was a need to unite with a strong national fraternity with high ideals, the men, after much inquiry, chose Sigma Phi Epsilon as their goal.

Kappa Phi Epsilon received a charter from CMS on February 18, 1966. Receiving their charter in less time than any other fraternity in campus history, the men drew closer and united in their goal.

Greeks on campus soon recognized that the new fraternity was here to stay. Kappa Phis placed first in the United Heart Fund Drive, received three awards in three events in the annual UMOC contest, were in full participation in intramurals, received the office of Citizenship Chairman of the Student Government Association, and in 1967, Stuart Conrad was elected president of the SGA.

On February 8, 1967, they became Sigma Epsilon Colony. Sparked by this success rush brought more members and a place in the fraternity complex. Recognized as full-fledged Greeks, they entered their second year of competition.

Starting the year, Sig Ep won first in the house decoration contest for Homecoming, and second in intramural fraternity football. The men also sponsored a Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Warrensburg. The election of Ron Trout as vice-president of the interfraternity council, brought further prestige. Trout went on to be elected secretary-treasurer of the Midwest Interfraternity Council.

By LOUIS CONSTANTINI

FIFTY-SIX young men attending or graduated from Jacksonville University, Jacksonville, Fla., reaffirmed the responsibility of fraternity as a guiding principle of life when they were initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon on February 3.

In 1957, 19 aspiring students formed the third social fraternity on campus, calling themselves Omega Beta Chi. From the beginning, brotherhood was the central purpose of their association; these pioneering men chose for their motto, "A better life through brotherhood." After much work, Omega Beta Chi brothers petitioned Sigma Phi Epsilon for colony status. In January, 1967, the ambitious group consigned Omega Beta Chi to campus history and became a colony of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Florida Theta became JU's first fraternity, and the 169th chapter in the nation.

Friday, February 3, these Colony members were initiated: Hugh Charles Green, Phillip Edward Taylor, Gerard Welker, Andrew James Harris, David Johnston Brown Dennis Becher, Ronald James Mueller, David J. Beatty, Jack Nobles Blalock, Henry Burkett Bray, Paul Nicholas Dawes, Joseph Andrew Ellicott, Robert Clark Farqueson, Ronald Jerome Guertin, John Fancis Jones, Kenneth Michael Munsch, William Gordan Permenter, Douglas Marshall Scott, Allyn Dean Stockwell, Robert Lee Sutton, Morris Howard

Hindman, Kenneth R. Kornhauser, Matthew J. Laffey, Donald R. McConnell, William G. Mansfield, Byron L. Meek, Edward C. Pomanski, Kent A. Smith, William Patrick Dostler, Stanley Joseph Venski, Phillip Lorenz Greenwalt, John Kevin Clark, John West, Armando Jorge Piedra, John Obringer, Joseph Clark, James Brooks Brown, John Hodges, Carl Ludwig Weichel, J. David Landeau, Thomas W. Purvis, Charles Fredrick Helgarz, Jr., Raymond Wiley Williams, David Eugene White.

The weekend of festivities began Friday night with a reception held in honor of Grand President J. E. Zollinger, District Governor George Kaludis, Chapter Counselor Geoffrey Bennett, Staff Representative Richard W. Myers, and Francis Thompson, founder of Omega Beta Chi. A formal installation banquet was held at the Roosevelt Hotel in Jacksonville and was followed by a dance. At the banquet, Dr. Robert H. Spiro, president of Jacksonville University, was present; Dean Dan Thomas, Grand President Zollinger, Rick Myers, and Craig Marshall, president of Sigma Epsilon Colony, spoke.

Installed as officers of the chapter were Craig Marshall, president; Hugh Charles Green, vice-president; Phil Taylor, controller; Gerard Welker, secretary; Andrew

Harris, recorder; John Francis Jones, chaplain; Dennis Becher, guard; Henry Burkett Bray, senior marshal, and Kent Smith, junior marshal. Named that night as Sweetheart was beautiful Leila dePadua.

Initiations were conducted by teams from four Florida universities: University of Florida (Alpha), Stetson University (Beta), University of Miami (Gamma), and Florida State University (Epsilon).

The new chapter is an integral part of campus life. Sig Eps excel in every phase of student activities. Two JU Sig Eps are class presidents; two are Student Justices, and Sig Eps hold the offices of treasurer of the Student Government Association, and president of the Interfraternity Council. Five Sig Eps are on the staff of the school newspaper, the editor of the Yearbook is a Sig Ep, and two fraternity members are in Green Key, campus honor society. Sig Ep athletes represent JU in

Revival at Duke, Tri-State Installed

TWO additional installations—Indiana Theta at Tri-State College and Florida Iota at Southern Florida—and one reinstallation: North Carolina Gamma at Duke University—complete Sigma Phi Epsilon's spring expansion schedule.

The Duke chapter was installed in 1909 and became inactive in 1960. It began a new period of life as a pledge chapter in the fall of 1967 when Sigma Epsilon Colony was formed. On April 26, Past Grand President Bedford W. Black, of Kannapolis, N.C., presented the charter and delivered the installation address. About 50 men were initiated. Staff Representative Richard W. Myers coordinated installation activities.

Tri-State College became the home of a Sig Ep chapter on May 4 when Grand President J. E. Zollinger presented the charter of Indiana Theta. Fifty-nine members were initiated of a colony that grew out of the local Alpha Gamma Upsilon established in 1949.

The South Florida installation is scheduled for May 25.

sports—there are four Sig Eps on the tennis team, four on the soccer team, four on the crew, one on the golf team, and two play varsity basketball. Florida Theta's Sweetheart was first runner-up, and elected Miss Congeniality in the Homecoming contest.

Jacksonville University is situated in metropolitan Jacksonville. A small university of less than 3,000 students, JU offers the questing student many advantages; 50 per cent of its faculty hold doctoral degrees, and bachelor's degrees are awarded in 21 areas of the liberal arts, the fine arts, education, business, the sciences, pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, pre-law, and physical education.

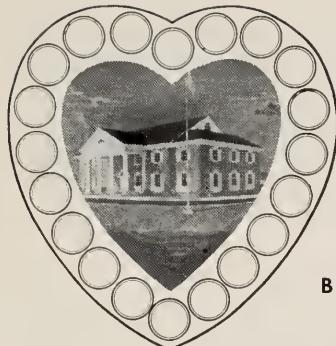

The campus is renowned for its beauty. Contemporary architecture blends with 220 acres of rolling hills and lush Florida scenery, bounded by the wide St. Johns River. Sixteen modern buildings are set in a woodland that is yet one-fifth untouched forest.

Sigma Phi Epsilon's brother fraternities at Jacksonville are Pi Kappa Alpha and Delta Chi and the locals Phi Delta Delta and Buccaneers. A chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority was installed in 1967 while colonies of Delta Delta Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha were also welcomed. Sigma Tau Epsilon is a local sorority.

Brotherhood has always been of great importance to the men at JU who have recently become brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and accepting the deep human values of Sigma Phi Epsilon, they must develop an awareness of a bond that will join their hearts with the brothers of the Fraternity's chapters throughout the nation.

HEADQUARTERS HEARTBEAT

BY DONALD M. JOHNSON-EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Birthplace Commemorated A BRONZE plaque commemorating the site of Sigma Phi Epsilon's birthplace has been installed on one of the two granite pillars at Ryland and Grace Streets in Richmond. The pillars marked the entrance to old Ryland Hall of the Richmond College campus; Richmond College (now University of Richmond) moved to its present west Richmond location in 1914. Grace Street now runs through where old Ryland Hall stood; only the pillars stand in mute memory of that building which was of great historical significance to Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The National Board of Directors participated in placing the plaque; it was later permanently attached after clearance was received from the University of Richmond Board of Regents and the necessary permits and ordinance were obtained. Now all passers-by can view the plaque with its commemorative wording: "IN RYLAND HALL OF THIS CAMPUS OF RICHMOND COLLEGE THE TWELVE FOUNDING MEMBERS ESTABLISHED SIGMA PHI EPSILON NATIONAL COLLEGIATE FRATERNITY ON NOVEMBER 1, 1901"

Life Member Card GRADUATING SENIORS can now receive their Life Member Card in late spring if the chapter president orders the cards from Headquarters. Life Member Cards were previously issued in the fall after the chapter president returned the Periodic Membership Report. This was a timely change, as the cards can now be presented at the chapter's Senior Banquet in the spring.

Incidentally, you can replace a lost or mislaid Life Member Card by sending your order and 75 cents to Headquarters. The handsome wallet-sized card is permanently encased in plastic.

Visitors VISITORS are always welcome at Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters, and they are arriving in increasing numbers . . . alumni . . . parents . . . pledge classes . . . undergraduates . . . officials of other fraternities. A glance at the guest book reveals they are from every section of the country.

Group tours need to be planned in advance, but individual guests are welcome any time. The office is open Monday through Friday, except holidays. If driving, take Exit 17 on Interstate 95; other transportation is convenient to the building.

You can't miss the building; located in north Richmond, it stands on a bluff with a commanding view of the highway parkways. The red doors and the Fraternity flag serve as identification for the Sig Ep, although designs are under consideration for further identification of the building (there are no signs at present).

Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters is located at 5800 Chamberlayne Road. Plan a visit soon. You'll be glad you did!

New Equipment NEW ADDRESSING EQUIPMENT to be installed this summer will enable Headquarters to give faster service in furnishing member or area lists to undergraduate chapters or alumni chapters and associations. Addresses will be updated more rapidly and accurately, too.

How fast will the equipment operate? Take, for instance, the JOURNAL listing job (printing labels for approximately 56,000 subscribers); that job presently takes about 105 hours, which includes updating addresses and changing file sequence to zip code order, printing, and returning the file to general roll number sequence. With the new equipment, the entire process should take less than five hours.

Moreover, the equipment plus the employee time saved will make possible additional services to members and chapters. For example, a directory of members could be printed at Headquarters—indeed, printing regional directories may be feasible! Incidentally, there was considerable enthusiastic response to the question (February JOURNAL) about the need for a current directory; your replies were most helpful and greatly appreciated.

Staff Changes THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR announces with regret the resignation of Robert C. Lynch, Miami, as Staff Representative. Bob's resignation resulted from aggravated back trouble which required surgery to fuse his vertebræ. As he will be immobile for some time, a card or letter from you will be most welcome; his address: 592 Binns Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio.

Veteran Staff Representative Steven A. Sullivan, San Jose, is retiring from the staff in June. Steve worked devotedly and diligently for two and one-half years visiting the West Coast chapters.

On the Go! GRAND PRESIDENT J. E. ZOLLINGER is setting a torrid pace for the National Board of Directors with his record number of visits to chapters; he has been to 31 chapters so far, with several more scheduled before June 1! The National Directors are also setting a new record with their chapter visits. When the annual meeting of the Board convenes in Richmond on June 8, the Directors will conclude the most successful year of chapter visitations in recent memory.

Publications COPIES of the new Alumni Relations Guide and the new Pledge Educators Syllabus were distributed to chapters and officials this year. The new Alumni Chapter and Association Guide is nearly ready for publication. The 30th Grand Chapter Minutes, delayed in publication, are being distributed to registrants, chapters, and officials.

VOCATIONAL AND PROFESSIONAL ACHIEVEMENTS IN BRIEF

RETIRED U. S. Senator Edwin C. Johnson is the subject of one of the best received features the Denver Post has published in years. Titled "The Life and Times of Big Ed," the story was written by Olga Curtis and presented in Empire Magazine, a Post supplement.

Brother Johnson has been four times a state legislator, three times governor, and three times U. S. Senator. Though being governor was his toughest job, he liked it the best. When he was elected to that post in 1933 he was 49.

In the Senate, Johnson was an isolationist. Nevertheless, he was famous as one of the Democratic party's outstanding vote-getters, undefeated in 11 straight elections. He protested the Korean War and was one of the first U. S. Senators to protest publicly against sending American GIs to Vietnam.

One of the illustrations in the Denver Post feature shows Johnson chatting with the present governor of Colorado—John A. Love, Denver, '40.

SENATOR BOURKE B. HICKENLOOPER, Iowa State, who will complete 24 years as a United States Senator from Iowa this year, announced to a press conference in January that he would not seek re-election.

He has been head of the Republican Policy Committee, which includes the entire GOP membership of the Senate, since 1962.

He was one of the members of the Foreign Relations Committee to get an acceptable compromise on the 1967 consular treaty—the first treaty ever concluded between the U. S. and the Soviet Union.

Many years earlier, the 72-year-old Senator was co-author of the atomic energy law which opened the door for the private development of atomic energy.

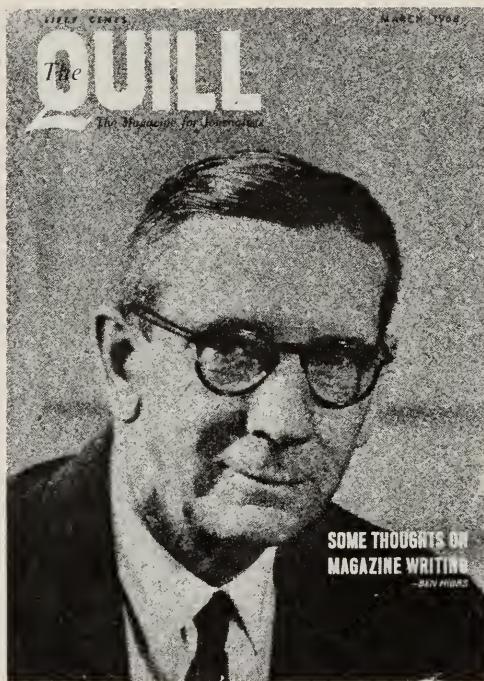

Senator Hickenlooper began his career in politics in 1935 as a member of the Iowa house of representatives. He was lieutenant governor from 1939-43 and then governor for two years.

BEN HIBBS, Kansas, '23, editor of The Saturday Evening Post for 20 years and now a senior editor of Reader's Digest, is the author of "Some Thoughts on Magazine Writing," which appeared recently in The Quill.

Hibbs, whose journalistic career began with editorship of the University's Daily Kansan, recalls several questions he would ask of young men who would like to be journalists. For example:

Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Iowa State, now retired after notable political career.

The Quill, magazine for journalists, features article by Ben Hibbs, Kansas, '23, former editor of Saturday Evening Post.

"Do you believe in the principles of honesty and decency? Do you believe in the United States of America and what it stands for? Are you willing to do battle for your beliefs, even when it brings trouble or personal inconvenience? In short, do you, deep down inside, want to do some good in this world?"

Says Hibbs: "The people who get to the top in this strange business of writing are those who have never stopped educating themselves, who love knowledge for the sake of knowledge, whose tastes in reading range the whole spectrum of human endeavor—even when it is far afield from their own specialty. Their minds are fertile with sound, usable ideas, and they bring to their typewriters a breadth of understanding that gives substance to their product.

"Now, I firmly believe that a competent reporter and writer must possess a healthy amount of skepticism and I am also a firm believer in the valid journalistic exposé—in attacking evil things that should be attacked. For it is only through exposure that the bad can be corrected. On the other hand, I do not believe in bashing decent people over the head just to be smart and scintillating. And I believe also that there are many fine things going on in America, and in the world, which make intensely interesting reading, and I contend that these stories also should be told. Too often they are not told because there is a tendency in many editorial offices to regard sweetness and light as unsophisticated and corny."

HOMER A. SCOTT, Nebraska, '27, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank at Kansas City, Mo., was honored recently when a portrait of him was unveiled in the board room of the bank.

A leader in the cattle-raising field, Scott has conducted ranching activities in Wyoming and Montana since 1943.

Since 1936, Scott has been vice-president and district manager of Peter Kiewit Sons Company. His district includes North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho. It is a construction and engineering organization which he joined in 1930 with a B.S. in civil engineering.

WILLIAM M. HOLT, Nebraska, '20, retired in June as senior member of the Indian Claims Commission. During his 21 years on the job he has had a hand in awarding American Indians more than $200,000,000 in settlement of claims against the United States.

The commission's largest award—$29,100,000—came in the so-called California case, involving a number of tribes which claimed they had owned most of California. Now the commission has a case filed by the Seminole Indians who contend they owned most of Florida.

Holt was named by President Truman in 1947 to serve during the 10-year-life of the commission. However, when the commission was given two five-year extensions by Congress, Holt was reappointed by President Eisenhower and then the late President John F. Kennedy.

EUGENE McDERMOTT, Stevens, '19, recently retired as the head of Texas Instruments, Inc., having led the firm from relative obscurity into the position of one of the world's largest producers of transistors and electronic components. He served both as president and chairman of the board during the period of rapid growth.

McDermott is well known at Stevens as a major contributor each year to the Stevens Alumni Drive. The Stevens Center, the main building on campus, was built primarily upon donations from this distinguished alumnus. He lives in Dallas.

WILLIAM O. BEERS, Wisconsin, '37, president of the Chicago-based Kraft Foods Division of National Dairy Products Corp., was elected president of the parent organization in January.

He had been president of Kraft Foods since 1965 and before that vice-president in charge of Kraft's international operations. He has also been a vice-president and director of National Dairy since 1965. In his new post he will also serve as chairman of the operating committee.

NORMAN A. JOHNSON, JR., Mississippi State, was recently re-elected to a four-year term as one of the state of Mississippi's three public service commissioners. He is chairman of the commission charged with regulating public utilities and common carriers in the interests of the public.

Johnson lives in Philadelphia, Miss., where he was formerly mayor.

J. PHILLIPS COLEMAN, Virginia, '26, board chairman and chief executive officer of First & Merchants National Bank, Richmond, Va., the state's largest bank, has retired from his post after 30 years of service for the institution.

Following his graduation from the University, he spent some time with Bankers Trust Co. of New York before joining First & Merchants National.

ROBERT D. FORGER, Norwich, '49, has been named to the newly created post of associate executive secretary of the Society of Plastics Engineers, Stamford, Conn. He will assist in administration of the 14,000-member society and as the S.P.E. publisher, will oversee publication of technical volumes and periodicals, including the monthly S.P.E. Journal and quarterly Polymer Engineering and Science. He will also continue to supervise the society's educational and promotional programs including public relations, membership and circulation development. He joined the society in 1959 as public relations manager.

WHITNEY H. EASTMAN, Dartmouth, '11, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1923 and trustee of the William L. Phillips Foundation, recently received an honorary life membership in the American Soybean Association for his many years of leadership in the industry.

Vice-president of General Mills from 1942 until his retirement in 1955, Eastman helped organize the National Soybean Processors Association and was its first president. He is a officer of First Interoceanic Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.

ELLIS C. MACDOUGALL, Davis and Elkins, '50, director of the State of South Carolina Department of Corrections, was named 1967 South Carolinian of the Year in February. Columbia TV station WIS announced the award at a luncheon in his honor in Columbia.

MacDougall received his master's in criminology at N.Y.U. in 1951, arriving in Columbria in 1958 as deputy warden of the State Penitentiary. He was named director of the Department of Corrections in 1962.

MacDougall's establishment of "pre-release" centers throughout the state and his emphasis on recidivism have brought South Carolina's rate of return to the state's penal institutions to an all-time low of 10 per cent. This is the lowest in the nation, and well below the national average of 30 per cent.

He was formerly counselor to the Sig Eps at South Carolina.

SCOTT H. BICE, a senior at his alma mater's Law Center, will soon be part of the operation of the Supreme Court and the Chief Justiceship of the United States. He has been chosen as one of Chief Justice Earl Warren's three law clerks.

Bice, a 1965 cum laude graduate of the S.C. School of Business Administration, as an undergraduate served as controller of the house, elections commissioner for the student body, and political editor of KUSC-FM. After receiving his Juris Doctorate degree from the S.C. Law Center in July he will go to Washington and begin his work of research and aiding in the preparation of opinions for the chief justice.

Nominees are selected by a team of attorneys from this area, which nominates one person from each law school in the region. The three clerks are chosen on the basis of interviews and their records.

Bice is editor-in-chief of the Southern California Law Review. He has served as a member of the Curriculum Committee of the Student Bar Association. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi.

He served the firm of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher in the capacity of clerk last summer, and will return to Los Angeles from his Supreme Court stint a year from July.

BILL CRAWFORD, Oklahoma, entertainment editor for the Lawton Constitution-Morning Press, has been named Oklahoma cooking champion at the eighth annual Men's National Cooking Championship in New York. His winning dish was "Chicken Casserole."

He was one of 50 amateur male cooks selected from a field of 456,000 men by a panel of leading women food authorities to compete in the regional contests. He offers the winning recipe to JOURNAL readers:

1 stewing chicken, 3½ pounds or larger
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup almonds or walnuts or pecans, chopped
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 10½ ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup or mushroom soup
1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
finely crushed potato chips
paprika

Steam chicken until very tender. Remove meat from bones, and cut into bite-sized pieces. Mix with remainder of ingredients except potato chips and paprika.

Turn chicken mixture into greased two-quart casserole. Top with crushed potato chips. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake uncovered in moderately hot (350-degrees) pre-heated oven until bubbly, about 30 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: freeze casserole before or after baking.

BARRY PAVELEC, Rutgers, '62, has been named a circulation promotion manager of Dow Jones & Co. and will assist in the development of circulation promotion programs for the Wall Street Journal, Barren's National Business and Financial Weekly, the National Observer, and Newsbooks.

STANELY R. MADSEN, Utah State, '52, has been named general manager of New York Life Insurance Company's Sequoia general office in Fresno, Calif. He joined New York Life as an agent in Salt Lake City in 1952, and later served as assistant manager of the general offices in Las Vegas and Sacramento.

WILLIAM J. CONDON, Tulane, '34, resigned from the office of the Criminal District Attorney of Bexar County, Tex., where he has been an assistant since 1962, to accept appointment as chief of the International Law and Civil Affairs Division, U. S. Air Force Security Service, Kelly Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

ROBERT G. DUNLOP, Pennsylvania, president of Sun Oil Co., will receive a golden plate award from the American Academy of Achievement during the academy's Salute to Excellence Weekend June 13-16 in Dallas, Tex. Dunlop, who has been president of Sun Oil for the past 20 years, was named to a two-year term as president of American Petroleum Institute in 1965. He is also a director of both the national and Valley Forge Councils of Boy Scouts of America and serves on the boards of University of Pennsylvania and Hahnemann Medical Colleges and Hospital.

WILLIAM J. TOWNSEND, Wake Forest, '54, an attorney in Fayetteville, N.C., appeared as counsel for plaintiff in personal injury case in Robeson County, N.C. The results of the trial were reported in the December 27, 1966, issue of Jury Verdict Reports, a nationally circulated periodical published in the Caxton Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

S. ALFRED HALGREN, Minnesota, has been named a senior vice-president of Carnation Co., Los Angeles.

RUSSELL M. MOYER, Delaware, '28, has been named executive manager of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, with headquarters in Daytona Beach, Fla. Known as the world's leading stock car organization, NASCAR last year sanctioned 1,027 races on 85 tracks in the U.S., including major 500-mile speedway events at Daytona Stanley R. Madsen, Utah State, '52, new manager for New York Life in Fresno, Calif.

Beach, Atlanta, Ga.; Darlington, S.C.; Charlotte and Rockingham, N.C.; and a 500-mile road race at Riverside, Calif. Prize money totaling $3,121,104 was paid out in NASCAR-sanctioned events in 1967.

Moyer came to NASCAR from Reading, Pa., where he was publicity director of the Reading Fair and the Reading-Berks Chamber of Commerce. He also was race director for the Fair. A native of Silverdale, Bucks County, Pa., Moyer began his newspaper career as a sports writer for the Norristown Times-Herald and later was sports editor of the East Stroudsburg Morning Sun. In 1936, he handled publicity for the first stock car race ever held on the Daytona Beach road course.

ARTHUR J. SMITH, Lawrence, '32, is public relations director of Mile High United Fund, Inc., which recently raised 101 per cent of its goal ($5,404,000), in its 80th anniversary year. Headquarters are in downtown Denver, Colo.

F. MONTE EVENS, Southeast Missouri State, '55, has been promoted to senior research scientist in Continental Oil Company's research department at Ponca City, Okla. He received his Ph.D. at Iowa State in 1962.

BYRON A. BLEDSOE, Tennessee, '35, has been named president of Helms Concrete Pipe Co., Alexandria, Va. He served until 1964 as southeastern regional manager of Martin-Marietta Corporation's concrete products division and subsequently as executive vice-president of Allied Products Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A colonel in the Army Reserve, he served with the Corps of Engineers in World War II.

WILLIAM H. HUFFMAN, Purdue, '32, has been promoted from assistant chief engineer of construction for the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. to the post of chief engineer of the road. He is a past president of the American Railway Bridge and Building Association.

CHARLES O. GILLOGLY, Montana, '39, former board chairman and president of the Munitions Carriers Conference, Washington, D.C., has been elected vice-president of Tri-State Motor Transit Co. He has assumed charge of government relations of the firm's subsidiary, Hughes Transportation, Inc., Washington.

From 1946 to 1952 he served as traffic manager for the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department.

WINSTON E. ARNOW, Florida, was recently appointed a Federal judge in Florida.

A. E. Dick Howard, Richmond, Associate dean of Virginia law school, is executive director of a new commonwealth commission.

EVENTS OF DISTINCTION IN THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

A. E. DICK HOWARD, Richmond, former Rhodes Scholar, a graduate of the law school of the University of Virginia, has been a member of the faculty there since 1963. Now associate dean of the school at the age of 34, he was recently assigned an important commission by the state of Virginia. He was named recently to be executive director of the Commission on Constitutional Revision, which may recommend the state's sixth constitution.

For his staff, Howard plans to use practicing and academic lawyers from the Virginia Bar as counsel to each task force, plus consultants in specialized fields. He will drop his teaching duties next year because of the commission work, but continue as associate dean. At the University he is also chairman of the 150th anniversary committee for the 1969 celebration.

A former law clerk to U. S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, he has written a book, The Road from Runnymede: Magna Carta and Constitutionalism in America.

The 1967-68 School and Society study of college enrollment, by GARLAND G. PARKER, vice-provost for admissions at the University of Cincinnati, reveals an increase of 6.2 per cent fulltime students over the preceding year. The total stands at 3,577,531; 1,088 institutions reported. The increase in freshman enrollment is 2.3 per cent.

For eight straight years the teachers colleges have set the percentage pace with an increase for 1967-68 of 9.9.

Freshman women in the arts and sciences increased by 3.3 per cent, but the men only .02 per cent. Selective Service accounted for the interruption of the education of thousands of young Americans.

DR. A. H. SCHMITT, Nebraska, has given up his post in the school of dentistry at the University of Puerto Rico to return to the States. After nine years at San Juan, he has joined the faculty in the school of dentistry at the University of Detroit.

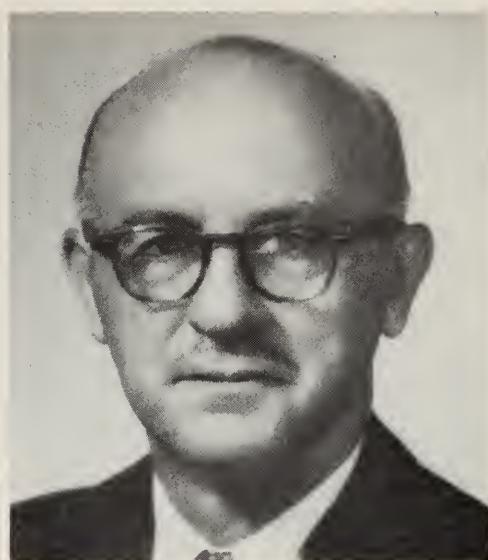

RUSSELL H. EWING, Minnesota, '22, returned to his alma mater recently to receive a J.D. degree on the basis of law study there years earlier. Dr. Ewing has taught at many major universities. He is president of the National Institute of Leadership, Beverly Hills, Calif.

JAMES GOSSETT, Ferris State, '63, a teacher in the Utica Community Schools, Detroit, Mich., was named 1967 Outstanding Young Educator by the community Jaycees.

RICHARD NEWMAN, Greeley, '66, is assistant football coach and head swimming coach at South Dakota State University, Brookings. Newman, who played three years of varsity football for his alma mater, was appointed to the SDSU physical education staff shortly after receiving his master's degree in physical education at SDSU recently.

ALLAN SMITH, Washington U. (Mo.), was elected Vice Master Alchemist of Alpha Chi Sigma, chemical honorary.

JERRY L. RICHARDSON, Bowling Green, is working in the Office of Campus Planning at his alma mater. He is occupied with preparing data for the Ohio Board of Regents who control the budgets of Ohio's colleges and universities. He is also doing graduate work in student personnel and expects to earn his master's shortly.

Dr. Arthur H. Schmitt, Nebraska, has left Puerto Rico to join Detroit dental faculty.

UPWARD AND ONWARD IN THE MILITARY

CAPT. JOHN B. LIEGL, Baker, '63, took part in the 10,000-mile airlift of 101st Airborne Division units to Vietnam on November 17—the largest and longest aerial troop deployment in history.

Captain Liegl, a navigator, flew aboard one of the Military Airlift Command (MAC) transports that airlifted units of the 101st—the famed Screaming Eagles—from Ft. Campbell, Ky. to Vietnam.

The deployment was dubbed Operation Eagle Thrust. MAC C-141 Starlifters and C-133 Cargomasters carried more than 10,000

Johnny Robinson with Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs.

Baker Initiates Robinson

JOHNNY N. ROBINSON, defensive safety of the Kansas City Chiefs AFL football team, was initiated as an honorary member of Sigma Phi Epsilon on the evening of March 18 by the chapter at Baker, before a gathering of more than 60 undergraduate and alumni brothers. John Hartman, member of the National Board of Directors, assisted the undergraduate team in the ritual work.

From his beginning in high school at Baton Rouge up through graduation from Louisiana State University, John lettered in five different sports: football, basketball, track, baseball, and tennis. A catcher on the baseball team, a 9.7 dash man in the 100, a better than 20 point per game in basketball, Southeastern Conference singles champion in college, he is best known on the football field. At LSU he helped Billy Cannon spark the LSU Bengals to a national championship in 1958 with an 11-1 record.

In 1960 he was drafted as the number one draft choice by the Detroit Lions, but signed instead with the new AFL at Dallas. During his first three years he played in the offensive backfield of the Dallas Texans, scoring three touchdowns against New York in his final game on offense. The following years he switched to defensive safety, and since the team moved to Kansas City five years ago, he has been All Pro first team defensive safety.

He is employed in the off season with the Franklin Life Insurance Company as an Agency Manager of the company.

Among communications read at the initiation ceremonies was a letter from John A. Hunter, president of Louisiana State University, expressing his delight in the action of the Fraternity in making Johnny Robinson an honorary member. President Hunter is a Davidson Sig Ep.

LT. COMDR. BENJAMIN G. MATTOX, JR., North Carolina, '52, in March was promoted to the rank of commander.

He is assistant public affairs officer on the staff of the Chief of Air Reserve Training with headquarters at the Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill.

Since receiving his wings in 1953, Commander Mattox completed three years of service in a patrol squadron, worked as a flight instructor at Stallings Air Base, Kinston, N.C., and was assigned as a flight instructor with the Naval Air Base Training Command at Pensacola, Fla. After completing tours of duty with the Pacific Missile Range Facility, Kwajalein, and the Airborne Early Warning Barrier Squadron, Hawaii, he was assigned as an instructor in Naval Science at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

MAJ. CHARLES A. BANKSTON, Texas, '54, C-135 Stratolifter pilot, has been presented a Military Airlift Command (MAC) safe flying award at Yokota AB, Japan, in recognition of his 5,000 hours of accident-free flying.

MAJ. RICHARD L. MEHR, George Washington, A-1E Skyraider pilot, has been decorated with the Air Force Cross, the second highest award for combat valor, and his third award of the Distinguished Flying Cross at Ft. Sill, Okla., where he is serving as a representative of the Air University.

Major Mehr was cited for extraordinary heroism while flying cover for an F-105 Thunderchief pilot downed in a heavily defended area of North Vietnam. Amidst MIG fighters, surface-to-air-missiles, antiaircraft and small-arms fire, he located the pilot and continued to direct air strikes against enemy positions.

He returned to base with the onset of darkness and diminishing fuel, but volunteered to continue rescue operations the next day and took off at first light. He directed 30 air strikes against numerous enemy gun positions, remaining in the area despite a fuel leak, until a helicopter picked up the pilot.

GEORGE A. SIMPSON, Tennessee Wesleyan, on March 30 completed his assignment as petty officer in charge of armed forces radio service at U.S. Naval Station, Rota, Spain.

His new position is Chief of Information (CHINFO), Washington, D.C., with the editorial services branch that publishes NavNews and Direction magazine for Navy journalists and public affairs officers.

Journalist First Class Simpson has worked as radio announcer/deejay, station manager, tv scriptwriter and producer, plus guest stints on local tv.

While at U.S. Naval Station, Keflavik, Iceland, in 1964, he was editor of the weekly paper, White Falcon, and received a CHINFO Merit Award for the third quarter of 1964 along with 19 other publications out of 500 sea service papers.

Later, he became radio station manager of Armed Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRTS) at Keflavik, a 250-watt AM station, that served the naval community as well as the Icelanders, who had no television.

Simpson wrote a documentary on Winston Churchill's death and was local commentator during the 1964 U.S. Presidential elections both over AFTV, Keflavik.

MAJ. ROBERT S. HOWEY, Montana State, '53, is a member of the 504th Tactical Air Support Group at Bien Hoa Air Base, Vietnam, which has been awarded the Pacific Air Forces Tactical Unit Safety Trophy for 1967.

Forward air controllers of the 504th, headquartered at Bien Hoa, who direct tactical air strikes against enemy objectives, flew O-1 Bird Dog and O-2 aircraft more than 311,000 hours during 1967 with only 12 major accidents. This was accomplished under extremely unfavorable conditions in the hazardous combat environment of Vietnam.

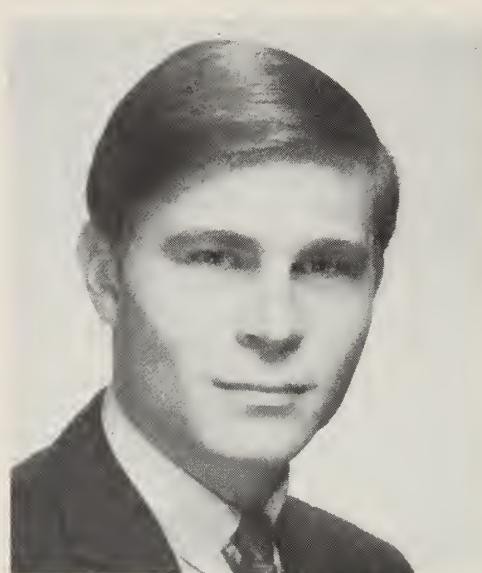

Cmdr. Benjamin G. Mattox, Jr., North Carolina, '52, assistant public affairs officer at Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill.

14 weeks of training at Columbia University.

He is one of 50 new volunteers who will teach in Kenya secondary schools, working with the Kenya Ministry of Education.

Gladwin's major at Utah State was wildlife biology. A dean's list student, he served the chapter as chaplain.

THE MEANING OF BROTHERHOOD

At Philadelphia Textile, the older brother shows the younger how to do academic work.

Since its origin the fraternity has been part of and a leader in America's thinking in respect to brotherhood as a way of life. Its members have expressed these ideals in a "still small voice, perhaps in a too still and small voice." The college fraternity is a laboratory which is committed to the application of brotherly love. The hope is to instill the will and ability "to appreciate, get along with, and enjoy other people."

The fraternities then have the responsibility to lead in the encouragement of the higher objectives of brotherhood. The fraternity has been compared to a living workshop of democracy and has been considered a small model of the community; hence the usefulness of the fraternity experience. But we must be made aware of these broader meanings; we must look beyond our immediate vision; we must adjust and condition our thinking about fraternity to these larger considerations. The goals are now clearly set for the fraternity.

—BENJAMIN KNOX

LESSON FROM THE PLEDGE

A LESSON pledges are taught in the Philadelphia Textile chapter is that the modern fraternity chapter must become a leader on today's campus. It can no longer isolate itself from the college. It must become a part of the campus life, and not remain an aloof circle. To succeed in this task, the fraternity chapter must reexamine and comprehend what is meant by the width and depth of a fraternity.

This can easily be understood in terms of personal friendship among the brothers in a chapter, but it becomes more difficult to maintain fraternal feelings towards others not in the fraternity. However, the ideal of the fraternity to be inclusive must have wider horizons. As one observer expresses it: "The college man who must bear the burdens of leadership in a changing world must be compassionate and just and magnanimous—in short he must be fraternal not only to those in his circle but to all who might be touched by him in the nation's corporate life."

DILIGENCE AT DRURY

DILIGENCE is such a quality or virtue as should benefit all men in whatever social rank or station. It is the driving force of work which means that a job well done, diligently, will reflect a man's best labor and ability. Without diligence, there could be no perfection, precision, or quality. It must be characteristic of the menial tasks, as well as life long undertakings. Diligence can be its own reward, as well as providing a person with substantial proof of his willingness to work—a quality which is coveted and admired all too often in jealousy.

The Bible, for example, contains many passages on diligence, industry, and work. Such is Proverbs 12:24; "The hand of the diligent shall bear rule: but the slothful shall be under tribute."

This passage is particularly applicable to man's society and smaller societies within it. As a fraternity possesses the unifying characteristics of a society, these words are an important lesson in fraternity life. Those members of the fraternity who have shown the greatest consistent diligence within their ranks are duly rewarded with offices. Their stations are the reward of their work—hard work—which, even though tedious at times, was considered important enough to be given "their all" and best consistent effort. The active members, as a whole, have shown diligence, first as pledges, and then as full-fledged brothers in order to be called Sig Eps. The honor of their organization is their reward—it was earned and is kept by diligence. Pledges, if they are ever to be accepted as brothers, must learn how to work with diligence in order to be trusted by brothers who themselves uphold diligence.

Outside the fraternity and in daily life, diligence is no less important. Hard work at studies is of the first necessity to the student. His grades, graduation, future vocation, and remaining life depend in large measure on how well, diligently, he works. For the student, diligence may mean some sacrifices of the "like to do" for the "must do" and "ought to do." It may mean very long hours over a book or paper. It may mean constant revisions until perfection is reached. Diligence must imply "going the extra mile" and performing things which, even though not requested, round out a job and make it a thing of pride. Diligence may mean doing everything, regardless of apparent importance, to the very best of one's ability. Without these disciplines (and diligence means discipline) a man will never quite realize his full potentialities or dreams. Laziness and procrastination, on the other hand, will brand him socially and personally as a moral coward. Diligence is ethical. The opposite is a sin.

Finally, as a social as well as personal virtue, another important point must be made. In any hierarchy of men, certain qualities must be present in order to provide the necessary impetus or "spirit" for hard work. The foremost of these is respect. A subordinate naturally reflects the attitude and manner of his superiors. Without diligence on the part of those who make the rules, those who follow will have no example to live up to and work for. Diligence to attain an unworthy goal, either naturally so or made that way by neglect, is absurd. Diligence, therefore, implies an obligation of those who work hard to be consistent, and therefore an example to those who have to learn. "A wise ruler raises a wise son—to take his place."

—CARL WALLACE

THE WILL TO WIN

THE Mississippi chapter has lifted itself from a mediocre to a top position. It is a summation of brotherhood, unity, and plain hard work on every brother's part. We are proud of our progress. But just so we won't forget our formula for successful operation, I've written it down. Here it is:

1. Have the determination to win, no matter what the odds. Develop the habits that effective determination requires.
2. If you are in debt, make an attempt to get out of it. If not, save your assets.
3. Rush always; never stop.
4. Boast of your fraternity as the best yet, have CONFIDENCE.
5. Have faith in God and believe in yourself and your brothers.

We here at Mississippi Alpha believe these are the elements that constitute successful campus brotherhood.

THE NUMBER ONE BOOK
IN ANY FRATERNITY LIBRARY

A review of the new Baird's Manual digested from Banta's Greek Exchange

By RAY BLACKWELL, Phi Delta Theta

DURING the nearly 90 years of its existence, Baird's Manual of American College Fraternities has come to be the number one book in any fraternity library—the one book no general fraternity office, no library on a fraternity campus, no individual who is interested currently or historically in the fraternity tradition can be without: a book which no campus interfraternity office or student personnel officer will be without; and a book no fraternity or sorority chapter should be without.

Of course, the 18th edition, along with its predecessors, contains the “vital statistics” of American college fraternal organizations.¹ This would be expected but the individual who thinks the current Baird's Manual is limited to a listing of fraternity facts and figures is in for a delightful surprise. In addition to the extremely valuable statistical information, the capsule histories of fraternities (and naturally the word “fraternities” embraces both men's and women's fraternal groups), and the complete current chapter roll of each group, the current edition is a storehouse of information on the college fraternity and its role in American higher education. The introductory chapter, “The Nature of the College Fraternity,” should be must reading for every chapter's members and pledges.

A listing of the contents is persuasive evidence of the abundance of valuable material to be found in the current Baird's Manual. The book is divided into nine major parts and concludes with an extremely useful appendix laden with source material.

The nine major headings are: Part 1—The American College Fraternity; Part 2—Campuses and Their Fraternities; Part 3—The Men's Fraternities; Part 4—The Women's Fraternities; Part 5—The Professional Fraternities; Part 6—The Honor Societies; Part 7—The Recognition Societies; Part 8—Distinguished Local Fraternities; and Part 9—Fraternities That Are No More.

Within the past five years, articles in various national publications have predicted the steady decline and relatively early death of the American fraternity system. One writer went so far as to declare the system was already dead and only awaited a decent burial. The 1968 edition of Baird's Manual containing

891 pages of fraternity information, produces the factual evidence to reveal how wrong these writers were for, instead of decreasing, the college fraternity was making significant gains at the very time the writers were, gleefully in some cases at least, holding a public execution of the system. During the five years since the 17th edition (1963) fraternities affiliated with the NIC went from 3,656 chapters to 4,055 and sororities affiliated with the NPC increased from 2,048 chapters to 2,267. There was a corresponding significant gain in the number of members.

Editor Robson has in an unobtrusive manner injected some good fraternity philosophy in the preface to the new volume which if read and followed will benefit chapters throughout the fraternity world. Example:

"As interfraternity council officers and chapter leaders demonstrate in a thorough-going way that they are the experts in this matter of brotherhood that they say they are, then it is likely that most administrators and faculty will continue to applaud good results in the chapter house, recognizing that the fraternity does a job the college cannot do. But if the fraternity is unwilling and unable to do it, then the college will have to try. In the past when this has happened, so many times the baby has been thrown out with the bathwater."

Another example of a philosophy which should be uppermost in the thinking of each chapter during the rushing season:

"The lesson has not yet been learned that no one can effectively bestow brotherhood as a gift. It must be earned. It must be worked for. It seems to this observer that good fraternity men and good sorority women very evidently come from an elite group whose members possess a dynamic combination of character and intelligence. They simply must value something besides a diploma. Men who enter fraternities merely to pursue a broad course of material satisfactions and do not search eagerly for spiritual homogeneity in fellowship almost always have a meaningless fraternity experience and end up by damaging the fraternity name."

This reviewer was particularly interested in the historical briefs under the heading "Origins and Evolution of the College Fraternity."

A mere listing of the subheadings in this section gives a quick appraisal of the extent to which this volume is a "primer of fraternity." They are: Men's Groups; Women's Groups; Greek-Letter Names; Membership; The Altar and Accouterments; The Chapter House; Organization and Administration; The Central Office; The Role of Alumni Members; The Housemother and Mothers Clubs; The Greek Press; Funds and Philanthropies; Professional and Honor Groups: The Honor Society; Mergers; An Era of Great Change; and (extremely important to every Greek) Obstacles in the Path. Each of these subsections contains much significant information which every fraternity should review from time to time. A brief historical development of inter-Greek relations concludes Part 1.

It is a safe prediction that extensive use will be made of Part 2 which lists in alphabetical order every United States and Canadian institution of higher education which has on its campus fraternity and/or sorority chapters. All chapters on each of 1,040 campuses are listed in order of founding under the classifications: Men's Social, Women's Social, Professional, Honor, Recognition, and Inactive.

Again, there has been a significant increase in the number of campuses having fraternities, an increase of 125 over the 1963 edition's list. Currently there are 1,546 institutions of higher education granting the bachelor's degree listed by the United States Office of Education. This means that approximately two-thirds of these institutions are hosts to fraternal groups.

The 1968 edition of Baird's Manual is dedicated as a tribute to Mary Love Collins, president of Chi Omega 1910-1952 and a devout worker in Panhellenic for the past fifty years, "for whose example of character and exercise of wise leadership the entire Greek letter world is profoundly indebted."

To label the 1968 edition of Baird's Manual as the best yet takes nothing away from previous editors. John Robson has been painstaking in his research, his writing style is easily readable, and he has included some words of wisdom and inspiration which make the current volume far more than a mere reference work.

DOINGS IN THE DISTRICTS

Toledo Sig Eps attended a District Governor's Ball on February 24, at the Secor Hotel in Toledo, in conjunction with the Bowling Green, Ohio Northern, and Ohio Wesleyan chapters. Guests of honor were District Governor George C. Hindall and Mrs. Hindall. Chapter advisers present included Dr. Hugh Harter, Ohio Wesleyan; Col. and Mrs. Edward Spurrier, Ohio Wesleyan; Dr. and Mrs. Edward Foster, Toledo adviser; and Mr. and Mrs. John Vergiels, Toledo counselor. Lou Barth, Toledo, was the chairman of the ball.

The following district meetings have been scheduled this spring:

6b at Georgia State, March 30; Norman Dresel, governor.

12a and 12b jointly at Florida on March 30; George Kaludis and Ray King, governors.

30 at Rensselaer on March 30; Bruce Hasenkamp, governor.

5a at Atlantic Christian on April 20; Ed Cloyd, governor.

8a and 8b jointly at Tennessee on April 20; Dick Panther, governor.

14 at Oklahoma State on April 20; George Ormiston, governor.

35, probably at West Virginia, on April 20; George Brown, governor.

36 at Lehigh on April 20; Mike Cimiglia, governor.

The following districts have also announced their intention to meet but have not fixed the time and place: 4, 13a, 13b, 17, and 37.

Jack H. Scherer, Western Michigan, '61, a former field representative, has been appointed Governor of District 9, embracing the chapters at Ohio State, Miami, Cincinnati, and Ohio University.

Following his graduation from Western Michigan, Jack served the Fraternity as a staff representative until called to active duty in the Army.

He is a former president of his chapter, served as chairman of the Alumni Committee as well as of the Public Relations Committee, was pledge trainer and general undergraduate chapter adviser. He attended the Washington, D.C. (1959) and Chicago (1961) Conclaves. On campus he was elections director on Student Council and IFC representative, in which capacity he attended the National Interfraternity Conference of 1960 in New York.

Jack's present position is district manager for Amco Industries, distributor of Jaguar, Triumph, and Toyota automobiles.

He and his wife Karen live in Columbus at 5004 Kingshill Drive. His chief hobby is automobiles and he is a loyal football, baseball, and basketball fan.

James S. Peebles, Jr., Utah, '63, who served as a staff representative for the Fraternity in 1964-65, was named Governor of District 38 in January. Southern Mississippi and Louisiana are the chapters in this district.

Jim was the pledge-trainer in the Utah chapter, participated in intramurals and skiing activities. He was active in the Student National Education Association. He received the degree of master of education from Louisiana State in 1966 and is chairman of the Biology Department in Martin Behrman High School, New Orleans. He is secretary of the board of deacons of the Lakeview Presbyterian Church in that city.

Jim and his wife Roberta live at 8427 Palmetto Street, New Orleans. Hobbies include fishing, sports, and nature study.

Bruce H. Hasenkamp, Dartmouth, governor of District 30, member of a New York law firm, has received a three-year appointment to the board of visitors of the Stanford University School of Law.

James S. Peebles, Jr., Utah, new district governor in Louisiana and Mississippi.

The annual District 13 (all-Kansas) basketball tournament was held on Saturday, March 16, at Shawnee-Mission East High School gymnasium, in Prairie Village, Kan. This was the tenth consecutive year the event has been held, and the fourth year that it has been sponsored and hosted by the Kansas City Alumni Chapter.

As usual, seven spirited undergraduate teams came to participate, and to round out the tournament roster, a somewhat aging but nonetheless determined team of Kansas City Sig Ep alumni competed. Determination proved to be no match for youth, however.

"Mr. Purdue Engineer"

A PEOPLE helper known as Mr. Purdue Engineer, David S. Clark, a member of the mechanical engineering department at Purdue since 1931, has retired after more than 44 years of service to Purdue and Sigma Phi Epsilon. He was initiated in the fall of 1923 at Purdue at an annual meeting of the alumni.

Upon graduation he went to work with the Association of American Rail Roads in Chicago as a mechanical engineer and became director of calculations for the Power Brake Investigations. His research brought him back to Purdue and he worked between Lafayette and Chicago. The sixty-volume report that his committee produced resulted in the development of the brake used on freight trains today.

Professor Clark joined the University staff with the project completion in 1931 and also became chapter counselor about this time. Receiving his master's in engineering in 1936, he became assistant head of the Mechanical and Aeronautical Engineering School in 1941. He held this post until 1946 when he was named full professor as personnel representative and senior counselor of the M & AE School.

He is a former president of the American Association of College Honor Societies as well as of Pi Tau Sigma and a member of Sigma Xi. His work in engineering and education has earned him a long biography in Who's Who.

Eminence has not changed Dave's attitude toward people. A professor always with time to help a student or any person with a problem has become his trademark. Known nationally among industries' executives, Dave's policy has always been, "People should spend more time on people."

After the first four games, the scorekeeper pointed out that an odd phenomenon had developed. In each of the games the team wearing the darker jerseys had triumphed. This uncanny coincidence persisted during the afternoon play-off games, until Kansas State, wearing dark maroon, and Emporia, garbed in black, were pitted against each other in the final game. In a hotly competitive contest Emporia came out on top.

Dr. Eugene Haas, president of the Kansas City Alumni Chapter, presented the traveling trophy and the smaller annual trophy to the exuberant winning team from Emporia. Following this presentation, Howard James, District Governor of District 13a, introduced John Hartman, a National Director and then awarded the huge scholarship trophy sponsored by the Kansas City Alumni Chapter, to the chapter from Washburn. The trophy is awarded each year to the chapter showing the best grade average and the most improvement in scholarship during the previous year.

In the evening, following the final game of the NIAA basketball tournament in the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium, Dr. Haas presented the annual Naismith-Liston Sportsmanship Trophy, a life-size gold basketball mounted on an engraved pedestal, to the team from Oshkosh, Wis., which, though not in first place in the tournament, had, in the opinion of the judges, exhibited the most outstanding sportsmanship. —DICK SOUTHALL

Temple Sig Eps sponsored a basketball tournament with four other area chapters, March 15-16. Delaware Sig Eps defeated Temple by a narrow margin in the championship match with Muhlenberg, Philadelphia Textile, and Lehigh finishing in that order.

Delaware's "Stump" Stinson and Temple pledge Tom Wiercerak were named the most valuable players. A party, with music by the Haymarket Riot, followed the Saturday games.

Gene Kelly and Harry Stokes organized the tournament. —TOM BUCKLEY

PLANS AND PROCEDURES FOR BETTER OPERATION

At Emporia State, Larry McGinnis, now a senior major in business management, instituted data processing to keep track of house payments, the boarding table, and all accounts payable and receivable, not to mention the whereabouts of about a thousand alumni. The computer compiled a listing of all brothers according to alphabetical order, hometown, address, zipcode, and city and state. An alumni directory is currently being published by a printer.

House bills are figured on a monthly basis. A master deck is fed into the computer which contains such information as married, single, in house, out of house, student teaching, and pledge or member status. The computer punches out all categories, computing the total amount due on each card.

With the systems, the books are made easier for auditing and the cash basis of the fraternity is always known. The whole fraternity process is speeded up by the system which is even used in rush to locate the rushees' home counties and addresses. It also types out which brother lives closest to the rushees and who could go and visit them.

McGinnis, who has worked during summer months for the IBM Corporation, has two programming assistants—Nick DiGiore and Mike Hoefer. They have compiled an inventory of 30,000 IBM cards designed by themselves. The computer system has completely proven itself. Much money was invested in the beginning, but it is paying off easily. McGinnis and his assistants have free access to the computer equipment in the College laboratories to help them carry on their work.

Texas Sig Eps put the computer to use in evaluating their 44-man pledge class of 1967 and guided by the computer initiated 40 members of the class.

The input for the computer is each pledge's S.A.T. score and his over-all high school average. These scores are key-punched on computer cards and submitted to the computer. The output is a list consisting of each pledge's name and the calculated probability of his making his grades. Those pledges considered "weak" are given special counsel by older members. They are told what courses they should take, what teachers to get, and are required to have more study hours. As a result of using this procedure, the chapter initiated 40 out of 44 pledges.

These pledges excelled not only in scholastics, but were actively engaged in intramurals, campus politics, and the betterment of the fraternity.

Monmouth's Cabinet System. One of the essential factors in the design of a chapter operation of peak efficiency is a well-constructed and coordinated cabinet system. At Monmouth, we have attempted to put into operation a cabinet system which would place the major responsibility for the chapter activities upon the appropriate committees, rather than upon officers or "fall guys" who willingly complete tasks which are someone else's responsibility.

There are several criteria which we use for selecting committee chairmen at Illinois Gamma. First, we try to select as many upperclassmen as possible. This adds to the prestige of a committee chairmanship as well as infusing into the cabinet some of the responsibility and maturity that upperclassmen should theoretically possess. Secondly, we attempt to insure that they will fulfill their duties for an entire year, coinciding with the term of office of the elected officers. This practice encourages continuity, responsibility, and realization of long-range programs. Thirdly, we attempt to make the cabinet as accurate a cross-section of the chapter as possible. This is done principally by expanding the number of individuals who participate in cabinet discussions. In addition to the usual committee chairmen such individuals as the steward, the student senate delegate, and the interfraternity council representative are members of cabinet. Not only do they add their voices and ideas to the formulation of programs, but they are also able to contribute information of their specific areas of responsibility.

Each week members are expected to submit written reports concerning their committee's activities of the past week, their future plans, and any problems that might be solved in conjunction with other committees. These reports are read and thoroughly discussed at cabinet meetings. The feeling of cabinet on a specific issue or program is presented to the chapter thereby eliminating a great deal of needless and repetitious argument during active meetings.

As in any other phase of chapter operation, a cabinet can operate efficiently only if there is this sense of continuity and consistency. A group may have a marvelous looking plan for an efficient committee system on paper but it is only if this plan is put into operation, and is reinforced year after year that it will have any value. The only test of a plan of organization is if it gets the job done efficiently.

—RUSS ANDREWS

The Bradley Sig Ep house has a unique possession—it is called the Traditions Wall. Impressive to look at, the wall recalls many a memory for brothers and alumni and inspires pledges.

Symbolizing the tradition of achievement, the wall marks traditions kept alive within the house. One of the most important traditions is the "Initiation Mug." This mug is only removed from its glass case twice a year; the night of initiation. Only the new brothers may drink from the mug.

Along with the initiation mug is a dark stained barrel, inscribed in gold with the words "Outstanding Pledge Award." The barrel carries the names of those brothers who were elected the best pledge in their respective pledge class.

Utah State Sig Eps have initiated a new program to improve big brother-little brother relationships and also overall chapter scholarship. Big brothers study with their little brothers an average of eight hours a week. Midterm tests have shown a tremendous improvement over last quarter's grades.

Brothers at Bradley formed the "grade squad." The squad started out as an informal group of brothers who needed extra help in their studies. Enthusiasm grew, with the group electing officers and coming up with the cheer, "Big "G" little "o" . . . Go for the Grades. The plan paid off: no members received below the all-men's average.

North Texas State Sig Eps have decided to hold a chapter retreat. Although most of the members live in the house there are some who do not have the opportunity to be at the house as much as they would like and it was felt that the brotherhood would be helped by a retreat.

The chapter is stressing scholarship among the pledges by making provisions for a greater number of study hours. A scholarship prize will be given to the pledge with the highest semester GPA.

Pennsylvania Sig Eps, as a part of the SPEaker Program which brings faculty and administration to the house for dinner and talks, had a faculty cocktail party for the retiring Dean of the College, Dr. Otto G. Springer. Many prominent members of the faculty and administration attended.

MONTANA LOOKS BACK ON 50 YEARS

University of Montana Sig Eps celebrated the chapter's 50th anniversary on February 2. On that day in 1918, Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu were the only two national fraternities on campus.

The chapter first purchased a home at 418 Daley Avenue, Missoula, in 1920. Here, Sig Ep began to mean what it does today. The chapter took an active part in intramural sports, Arbor Day, Homecoming, Interscholastics, Campus Sing, and Sig Ep's National Camp Fund, as various trophies around the house will show.

In the early 1930s, the chapter bought what is now the Delta Sigma Phi house. An old article in the Kaimin, the campus newspaper, said at one time Montana Alpha owned five lots on Gerald Avenue, a prime building spot in Missoula.

With the beginning of World War II, the fraternity went to war and the house had to be sold. In 1947, seven men returned to Missoula to reactivate the Chapter. They had no house, but Mrs. Ralph Fields, Sig Ep housemother and wife of a Sig Ep past president, allowed the men to use her apartment. It was in her home in 1947 that seven men were activated into Sigma Phi Epsilon.

In 1950, the men of Montana Alpha bought a house opposite the Sigma Alpha Epsilon site. It was small, however, and in 1954 the present house was purchased from the Kappa Alpha Thetas.

The last decade has been one of continuing growth for Sig Eps at Montana. At present, there are 74 active members and seven pledges, with the assurance of many more. The chapter has over 700 alumni.

On Saturday afternoon of February 2, alumni, parents, and friends of Montana Alpha gathered in Missoula for the celebration. In the afternoon, a luncheon and meeting was held for Sig Ep alumni, fathers, and honored guests. Well-known alumni present were former Montana governor John Bonner; Rear Admiral Edgar Reeder (ret.), head of the Montana Unemployment Association, District Judge William Taylor, and prominent Western Montana banker and citizen, "Dub" Paige.

The celebration itself began that night with a reception at the Hotel Florence in Missoula. Some 260 people were present to mark the occasion. A banquet was held, at which awards of recognition were handed out to prominent alumni, parents, and faculty. John Hartman, national officer, gave a talk concerning the importance of fraternal life and its relation to society. Steve Sullivan, national traveling secretary, also attended. After the banquet, the dance floor came alive and the Fiftieth Anniversary Queen of Hearts Ball was under way.

the local fraternity," one alumnus told chapter members.

Howard James, governor of District 13a, was a guest of honor at the celebration.

The chapter conducted tours of the campus and scheduled a fashion show for alumni wives. The fashion show was arranged by the Sisters of the Golden Heart.

Fritz Knorr, assistant athletic director at Kansas State and chairman of Kansas Beta's alumni board, received an "Outstanding Alumnus Award," for his work and devotion to the chapter.

The president of Kansas State sent a message of congratulations. "In no small measure, your success has been due to the support and assistance you have received from Sigma Phi Epsilon alumni. Your chapter can take pride in the achievements of the past 50 years. I thank you for your contributions to Kansas State University."

"Virtually everyone who attended the reunion complimented the chapter on the fine job they did hosting the reunion," Charles Wilson, alumnus and coordinator of the anniversary celebration, said.

"Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves immensely and expressed disappointment that more alumni could not be there to join the fun. Kansas Beta is especially grateful to have had Grand President Zollinger help celebrate the 50th anniversary," he said.

OREGON STATE'S SUCCESS A TRIBUTE TO DUBACH

By CRAIG LEHMANN

Friday, March 16, was a special day for the Sig Eps of Oregon State. Alumni and undergraduates gathered at the house to ready themselves for the festivities of the chapter's Golden Anniversary. The anniversary was in honor of Oregon Alpha's first initiate, Dr. U. G. Dubach, and his contributions to the chapter. Others attending the anniversary were Grand President John Zollinger, District Governor Richard E. Pahre, and Chapter Adviser Jim Welty. A multitude of alumni, their wives, and brothers from neighboring chapters also were present.

Alumni registered Friday afternoon, and then had a buffet dinner. The occasion was a reunion for many brothers. Throughout the chapter living room were posted pictures dating from 1918, when the chapter became a chartered member of Sigma Phi Epsilon. The photographs helped the alumni recall memories which the actives found to be much like their own college experiences. Friday afternoon provided a get-acquainted session when actives and alumni found they had much in common.

The actual 50th Anniversary celebration started Saturday morning at the Oregon State University Memorial Union. Rod Johnson served as toastmaster, and welcomed the guests. The purpose of this meeting was to summarize historically the past 50 years of the chapter's achievements. Lloyd Gregg first spoke of Oregon Alpha's origin as the Oxford Club in 1915. House property at that time included a large dining table and an upright piano. After three years of growth, the club applied for a charter in Sigma Phi Epsilon. In 1918, the Oxford Club was to become a fraternity. Upon installation by Washington Alpha, the Oxford Club became Oregon Alpha of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Also in 1918, two events occurred which played a very important part in the history of Oregon Alpha. Prof. U. G. Dubach was chosen Chapter Adviser and Mrs. Stowe was selected as the Sig Ep Housemother, the first housemother at Oregon Agricultural College. It was then decided that property would be obtained for a new fraternity house. The present location was chosen, and a southern colonial front house design was selected for the new structure. The house was completed before the return of the students in 1925.

Speaking for the next decade, 1930-39, was George Fletcher, '33, past chapter president. The hard times of the depression made existence difficult for all fraternities, school enrollment dropped and many were forced to leave the house. During these times, Doc Dubach was a pillar of strength for the chapter. He abandoned the policy of hazing which set Sig Ep apart from many other fraternities on campus, and still does. Doc's high standards of scholarship and character molded a chapter which withstood the challenge of social crisis during a decade of depression. Dr. Dubach's influence is still clearly present in Oregon Alpha.

Past chapter president Hal Firestone, '49, was the next to speak. His topic, 1940-49, was one of both pleasant and unpleasant memories. The outbreak of war late in 1941 was the biggest factor of the decade. By winter term 1943, most men had gone off to fight in the war. For the only period in Oregon Alpha's history, the house, for financial reasons, was not used for housing the members. Instead, OSU used it for a women's dormitory, and later a kindergarten. In the spring of '46, all the remaining veterans were back, and the house was suddenly 80 men strong. With a house capacity of 35-40, living quarters were at a minimum. The chapter reached the end of a truly great era with the retirement of U. G. Dubach. The chapter had lost its "strong right arm," but the OSU campus was growing, and Oregon Alpha grew with it.

Don Montgomery, past president, '52, was next to speak of the 1950-59 decade: 1950 saw the last of the veterans leave the chapter. This was the beginning of a new phase of building on campus. Along with this came a major revamping of the house. From '55 to '58 the capacity of the house was increased to 76 men. This single adjustment tremendously increased the physical potential of Oregon Alpha.

Curt Mumford, the last chapter president, was spokesman for the '60-to-present decade. Pointing out that, at the national level, Oregon Alpha has received the most outstanding chapter award in 1961, 1963 and consecutively for the last three years, '65-'66-'67. Thirty-three out of 35 years Oregon Alpha has maintained the highest grades on campus. In 1964, a court selection program was initiated which is called the Queen of Hearts.

Alabama alumni arrive for annual banquet held in their honor at the chapter house.

Last year, $18,000 was spent on the exterior of the house and a parking lot. All of these efforts add to the progress of Oregon Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Challenged on many fronts, fraternities have, with the aid of fine leadership such as provided by Oregon Alpha, been able to continue in traditionally strong fashion.

A special part of the 50th anniversary celebration was set aside to commemorate the efforts of U. G. Dubach, the most influential single factor in the success of Oregon Alpha. The banquet honoring Dr. Dubach was held Saturday night of the anniversary weekend. Dr. Dubach has devoted much of his life to Sigma Phi Epsilon, both nationally, and to his own chapter at Oregon State. Oregon Alpha's number one initiate has served as the National Scholarship chairman, and on the Board of Directors. He has always personified the ideals which Sigma Phi Epsilon stresses. Dr. Dubach was recognized for his achievements several times throughout the evening. Robert Kerr, a Portland lawyer, presented the Dr. U. G. Dubach Scholarship Fund to the Oregon Alpha Chapter. The fund will grant one annual fellowship to a Sig Ep entering graduate studies. Later, H. Bob Robinson, the first pledge of Oregon Alpha, and the recipient of the Order of the Golden Heart, made another presentation. A portrait of Dr. Dubach was presented to the Oregon Alpha Chapter. The portrait was hung in the chapter's library. A second portrait is to be hung in the national headquarters of Sigma Phi Epsilon with the Founders.

After the presentation, Dr. Dubach spoke. He summed up what a fraternity should do for its men. A fraternity should be a home away from home; it should create an intellectual atmosphere where accomplishment is fashionable; and it should also create a spiritual atmosphere. Oregon Alpha, said Dr. Dubach, is an outstanding chapter because it provides this type of atmosphere, and so it will remain as long as it continues to provide such an environment. But Oregon Alpha is what it is largely because Doc Dubach helped make it that way.

OTHER BIRTHDAYS

Alabama Sig Eps celebrated their 40th anniversary in December, 1967, with a banquet at the house. Paul Fiset was a speaker along with the chapter officers. The chapter's accomplishments for over the 40 years were reviewed and plans made for activities to come.

San Jose State Sig Eps held their tenth anniversary observance on March 9. The day was highlighted with an open house followed by dinner and a Casino Royale party. The Golden Hearts as cocktail waitresses served more than 200 brothers, pledges, and alumni.

OTHER GRADUATE ACTIVITIES

Denver Sig Eps entertained Grand President J. E. Zollinger and Mrs. Zollinger at dinner at the chapter house on February 20. Guests also included past Grand Presidents Charles R. Patch and Dr. William C. Smolenske, former Field Secretary Matthew McBride, District Governor Wesley Segelke, several chapter founders, Jack McCaffery, president of the alumni association, and Mrs. McCaffery, and Chapter adviser Louis Coppage and Mrs. Coppage.

Mom Bradford prepared an excellent dinner served buffet style. Before dinner the alumni association gave a party in honor of the Grand President's visit at the McCaffery home in Littleton. An impromptu banquet address was given by Brother Zollinger which included a report on his recent chapter visitations.

East Texas Sig Eps honored 23 charter members at their annual spring Sweetheart Dinner Dance at the Riverlake Country Club in Dallas. Honored guests included Jerry Norman, Tony Gavin, Gordon Cox, Tom Neugent, Roy Rhodes, Dr. Fred Tarpley, and Dr. Robert Cozart. Each of the charter members gave a short speech.

Alumni in the Emporia area were guests at a dinner held at the chapter house in honor of Grand President J. E. Zollinger in March. In his address, Brother Zollinger pointed out the need for high excellence and fraternity unity among Sig Ep chapters.

Sig Eps in the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., area are forming an alumni association. Any member interested in joining the group should contact Carl M. Adams, Jr., Suite 101, 2881 East Oakland Park Blvd., Fort Lauderdale, Fla. 33306.

Kentucky Sig Eps chose Charles H. Pulley, Iowa, '40, former field secretary of the Fraternity, president of Irving Air Chute Co., Lexington, as their first Outstanding Alumnus. Pulley helped the chapter acquire its new residence.

Kentucky alumni held a smoker at the house on March 3. Rhea A. Taylor, professor of history in the University and faculty adviser, is alumni board president.

The Little Rock alumni of Sigma Phi Epsilon met Tuesday, March 19, at the Little Rock Country Club. They discussed the possibilities of a chapter at Little Rock University. Also included on the agenda was a film on national football league highlights.

At this meeting, it was learned that six of the brothers are included in the recent call-up of guards and reservists stationed at the Little Rock Air Force Base—John Ramsey, Jr., Charles E. Daniels, Jr., Richard Edwards, A. Tim Irby, Tom Lewis, and Gary Bein.

Members of the Richmond Alumni Chapter and their wives attended a Valentine Dinner and Dance at the Willow Oaks Country Club on February 14. Approximately 30 couples attended.

A beach party and fall dinner dance will complete the year's program.

The St. Louis Alumni Chapter has been supplied by Headquarters with names and addresses (631—Zip Code only) for 616 brothers from 70 chapters. A meeting (without dinner) is being held once a month with many age groups represented. Sig Eps in surrounding areas, the East Side, etc. are cordially invited to call on the undersigned brother for information on meetings.

—FRANK N. PHELPS, JR.

Stevens Tech Sig Eps entertained their alumni on two occasions in May. Alumni Day was held on May 18 while another attraction was the annual Interfraternity Council Spring Sports Weekend May 10-12.

Knauss Dies at Age 83

FRANCIS J. KNAUSS, Colorado, '05, former chief justice of the Colorado Supreme Court and Grand President of Sigma Phi Epsilon from 1916 to 1923, died at his home in Denver, Colo., on March 5. He was 83 years old.

Knauss, a Republican, took his first plunge into politics in 1914, winning election in the Colorado Senate. He served as Denver GOP chairman from 1942 until 1946, when he was appointed to the Denver District Court bench.

He was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1951 and elected to an eight-year term two years later, polling the highest vote total of any state candidate.

After retirement in 1961, he continued to practice law. He was for many years chairman of the board of Trinity Methodist Church and a 33rd degree Mason. In 1961 he was appointed to the Colorado Board of Parole.

He was one of the charter members of the Denver Alumni Chapter in 1913.

He served the Fraternity with distinction and was awarded the Order of the Golden Heart and also the Sigma Phi Epsilon Citation, which is presented by the Grand Chapter to brothers who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields.

Bounce Basketball for Heart Fund

EVER bounce a basketball 176 miles? That is what 60 Sig Eps from the University of Mississippi did February 2-4, to kick off the state Heart Fund Drive. The bounce began at Court Square in Oxford and ended up at the State Capitol in Jackson where the weary bouncers were greeted by Governor John Bell Williams.

The cities which the ball was bounced through were as follows: Oxford, Water Valley, Coffeeville, Grenada, Winona, Duck Hill, Vaiden, Durant, Goodman, Pickens, Canton, and Jackson.

While the ball was being bounced through the towns some of the members solicited donations from passersby and the local merchants and tradesmen.

NEW CHAPTERS IN THE MAKING

Sigma Epsilon Colony was colonized at Georgia Southern College on January 9, 1968. Headquarters representative Richard Myers initiated the 13 charter members at a banquet held at the College Gate Restaurant. The founders of the colony are William Bridges, Valdosta State alumnus, and Carter Crawford, Georgia Southern student, who saw a need for a Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter at the College. From this nucleus a group of 20 men was organized. In response to an informal petition to Headquarters, Myers paid a visit in mid-November, 1967.

The College opened its doors to fraternities early in 1967. Participating in the first rush program at the College, members of the colony achieved success by ranking third in the number of pledges among the 11 fraternal groups on campus.

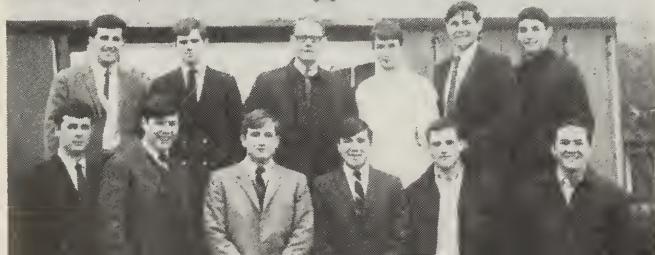

Homecoming at Georgia Southern was next, and the Sig Ep pledges had one of the two floats sponsored by fraternities.

In Sig Ep tradition, the colony initiated the first Heart Fund Drive by helping the local Chamber of Commerce. They also selected their first sweetheart to reign for 1968, Jan Rosser, a pretty sociology major from Jacksonville, Fla.

The colony has established a building fund, made plans to go to the Georgia Chapters conclave, and set up an alumni board headed by William Bridges.

Members of new Georgia Southern colony welcome Ric Myers (back, third from left) to the campus as their organization is started.

GSC NEWEST COLONY
SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sigma Epsilon Colony at Morris Harvey had the pleasure of entertaining Grand President J. E. Zollinger on March 22 and 23. He was the honored guest at a dinner and reception.

Frank Mathews, past president and founder, was elected to Who's Who. He received the Mark Patrick Robinson Brother of the Year Award.

Recently elected: Greg Ayers, president; Bill Grizzell, vice-president; Joe Maisto, treasurer; Bill Wood, corresponding secretary; Charlie Houck, recording secretary; Lou Gioia, historian; and Pat Garvey, chaplain.

The colony won the B League basketball intramural League. Joe Robertson was coach.

Bill Jenack and John Howard have been named to the all-conference soccer team.

The colony won the annual Blood Drive award.

The Pledge Class project was to help paint, work on the grounds, and wash windows at the local culture center, Sunrise.

Members are participating in a big brother-little brother program sponsored by the Kanawha County schools. This consists of a brother going to see a fatherless child and spending some time with him—playing ball, talking to him, and working on a project.

A new colony was established at Tennessee Technological University on March 5. Delta Chi Delta, a local fraternity, was installed by Donald Tanner, National Representative, with assistance from members of Sig Ep from Tennessee Wesleyan. Larry Adkins, Tennessee Wesleyan, '65, is the colony adviser.

The University is located on the Highland rim of the Cumberland Plateau in Cookeville, a town of about 15,000. Tennessee Tech had its beginning in 1915 as Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. Today the University is organized into five undergraduate schools and colleges plus a graduate school. The enrollment is about 5,700.

Social fraternities were officially recognized in the winter quarter of 1967. However, fraternities at Tech have dated back to 1962. During the fall quarter of that year the first group was formed. Delta Chi Delta was the second social fraternity to form when it was organized in the fall of the following year. From 1963 to 1966 five other fraternities were organized and 1967 saw the origin of the last two social fraternities. To date nine fraternities are recognized. Delta Chi Delta was the fourth local to affiliate with a national. Predecessors are Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma, and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

A house completed in the fall is of modified A-frame construction with exposed redwood beams and cedar shingles; 4,500 square feet of floor space are devoted to a living room, dining room, kitchen, seven bedrooms, two baths, a tv room and party room.

Delta Chi Delta has the highest over-all grades among the fraternities.

new house at a cost of nearly $250,000. The house is expected to be completed by next spring.

Davidson Sig Eps have begun an extensive interior renovation of their house. Plans include purchase of all new furniture, repaneling, repainting, and exterior landscaping.

East Tennessee State pledges remodeled the tv room. This included putting up walnut paneling, a new chandelier, draperies, and antiquing a fireplace. The spring pledge class set up money-making projects to add new carpeting and furniture.

Houston Sig Eps repainted the house. New housemother Mrs. Ferne Shulick served as decorator consultant. A side porch was enclosed to enlarge the party room while a private stairway was built for the convenience of the housemother. Football skins recently received from the brothers at Michigan State and Memphis State hang in the renovated trophy room. A new institution-type refrigerator enables the chapter to have Sunday evening meals together with a proposed daily board plan to begin soon.

Alabama Sig Eps as a pledge project purchased a new sofa and two wing-chairs for the living room. They also built a storage area. One large room was converted into a library and study room.

At Ball State, the hallways in the house were recently paneled with the alumni furnishing the paneling. The fall pledge class repainted the active chapter room and multi-purpose room.

Johns Hopkins Sig Eps under the direction of Dave Marr and House Manager Mike Hoffman worked the first semester to build the chapter room. Walls were torn down to make one large room. Marr designed and supervised construction of the bar. Wiring for the sound system was done by Bob Johnston.

At Lehigh, the Mothers' and Wives' club presented the House with a color tv set.

Long Beach Sig Eps finished remodeling which included bathroom facilities, a new bedroom, an industrial type kitchen and the largest fraternity house dining room on campus. The remodeling was financed through a loan from the National Housing Corporation.

The N.Y.U. Sig Eps were given a lift in improving their house when 15 Stevens Tech brothers came to Washington Square one recent Saturday and went to work. A new floor was laid in the party room, the bar room was thoroughly cleaned and repainted, much trash was carried away, new wood paneling installed in the living room, and a general cleanup conducted.

Ohio University Sig Eps have completed the installation of a $1,000 fire escape which will be painted by the pledges in the spring. This summer a new heating system will be installed and plans are being made to enlarge the house capacity from 23 to 29 with a new addition on the back of the house.

Penn Sig Eps will give up their chapter house at 3909 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, in July. The house will be razed by the University and the property used for campus building purposes. Until Penn Delta can build a new house, it will occupy quarters arranged for by the University. The main house, with common rooms and kitchen, will be at 3900 Spruce. In addition an apartment will be rented at 3290 Spruce.

At Purdue, the Mother's Club has remodeled the girls' powder-room and installed wall-to-wall carpeting. The Alumni Board has given the bum room a new look by installing new lighting fixtures, and the seniors have given the chapter a new color TV as their parting gift. All the study rooms will be repainted this summer.

The two Rutgers houses, both more than 70 years old, will be replaced. Plans have begun for the construction of a new chapter house on the same site. The fund-raising campaign is underway. The chapter newsletter, The Raritanian, joins the alumni Raritan Speaker in bringing chapter news to parents, graduates, and other chapters. These papers will help the campaign.

Sig Ep is the first fraternity at Rutgers to build a new house in recent years and this is considered a milestone for the entire system. There is increased interest of other fraternities to start plans on new houses. Under the leadership of Jack Witemeyer, our alumni president and chapter counselor, an interfraternity committee has been formed to coordinate the building of new houses.

Nineteen new initiates at Arizona will keep chapter at full strength.

The campaign has also made undergraduate-alumni relations more meaningful. Once again the Alumni Dinner Dance is a joint effort. Finally, the campaign has re-united many former chapter members and has strengthened ties within the brotherhood.

At Southeast Missouri, the living room has been improved by the purchase of a new color TV/AM-FM radio/stereo console. The alumni furnished new lamps and chairs for the lounge. Also, the chapter room has been brilliantly repainted in the Fraternity colors.

Southern California alumni contributed a complete remodeling of the first-floor area, including all new living room furniture and a thorough paint job.

Tennessee Wesleyan Sig Eps have been given a new color tv by Alumnus Marvin Rymer.

Thiel Sig Eps have installed wall-to-wall carpeting in the halls and the foyer. A bar was constructed by the fall pledge class and new chairs purchased for the chapter room. A new color TV was purchased.

Utah Sig Eps initiated a process of renovation, which includes building an Active Lounge. The house is buying panels for the walls and a carpet. The Mothers' Club has donated a tv set and a vacuum cleaner.

Wake Forest alumni helped in obtaining new additions to the house. The tv room has been completely refurnished. A new trophy case and tv cabinet have been added also. Most of the furniture in the chapter room has been recovered.

West Virginia Tech chapter president Bob Wildpret with Mom Dostall and Sweetie Pie.

Tech's First Housemother

MRS. D. DOSTALL not only is West Virginia Epsilon's first housemother in the chapter's short eight-year history, but she is also the first housemother in West Virginia Tech's 73-year history.

When Mom Dostall arrived at the house on February 1, the brothers were also pleasantly surprised with their new Sig Ep mascot, "Sweetie Pie," Mom's lovable pomeranian.

Mom Dostall maintains a home at Pratt, W. Va., where she has been active in the Women's Club for many years. Here she spends her days off with her grandchildren.

Mom has had experience as a housemother in a college-approved residence hall. However, she says that life in the fraternity house "is just so much more pleasant, and the boys are so cooperative and hospitable."

On February 11, the brothers held an open house and tea in honor of Mom. Seventy-five guests were present, including West Virginia Tech President Leonard C. Nelson, Missouri Rolla, '49. The Golden Heart auxiliary helped make this event a success.—DAN NOYES

Belmont Abbey Sig Eps at end of their 29-mile pull from Gastonia to Charlotte, N.C.

TIME OUT FOR HUMANITY

Arizona Sig Eps joined Delta Delta Delta to sponsor a Christmas party for underprivileged children of the Arizona Children's Colony. The chapter also placed second in the campus Red Cross blood drive.

Belmont Abbey Sig Eps staged a 29.4-mile pull of their "bandwagon" from Gastonia to Charlotte, N.C., thereby collecting $265 for the Heart Fund.

Culver-Stockton Sig Eps took a group of underprivileged children to a Friday evening basketball game at the College, and also had a party at the house, with ice cream and soda. The chapter participated in the annual Heart Fund Drive sponsored by the IFC.

Drake Sig Eps spent a Saturday cleaning, painting, and repairing a Des Moines Detoxification Center, a project of Polk County Welfare Center and Alcoholics Anonymous. In February, Drake Sig Eps collected with Alpha Phi for the Heart Fund. They also washed and drove The Sunshine Coach, a bus which takes culturally deprived children to places of interest.

East Texas State Sig Eps collected more than $1,000 in their annual Heart Fund drive which they coordinate with the Alpha Phis. The two groups collected money with a door-to-door drive in Commerce on February 25, and pulled a wagon from Dallas to Commerce on March 2 collecting donations along the 65-mile stretch.

Buffalo Sig Eps carry sign, "Sig Ep says show us your wallet for the Heart Fund."

At East Texas State, the Heart Fund drive was a cooperative project with Alpha Phi.

Florida Sig Eps donated 109 pints of blood for the annual blood drive in February, thereby winning the first-place trophy at the IFC Winter Frolics.

Lamar Tech Sig Eps recently received a letter of thanks from the Salvation Army for manning a kettle during the annual Christmas Bell Ring. In the March of Dimes drive the chapter collected over $150.

Ohio University brothers have led in three money drives. At Christmas they out-collected the other fraternities in the Christmas Seal drive. On Heart Sunday they covered one-fourth of the city of Athens and collected $200 for the Heart Fund. In March they were out to lead the way in the Easter Seal drive.

Pennsylvania brothers and pledges conducted a work session at the University Camp in Green Lane, Pa. The camp is opened during the summer for the children in and around the University. In addition, many brothers and pledges work for the Community Involvement Council and help in tutoring children in the West Philadelphia area schools.

Southern California Sig Eps spent a day hosting an orphanage at a picnic in conjunction with the Alpha Phis. The brothers also hosted underprivileged children at a large Christmas party, after which toys were distributed.

Utah Sig Eps played a basketball game with the inmates of the Utah State Prison. The inmates, who called themselves the Insiders, won the game 56-52.

Utah State Sig Eps held a banquet for members of the Clearfield Job Corps basketball team. Sports films were shown and the Job Corpsmen were then given a tour of town and campus.

William and Mary foster child, nine-year-old Wai Leung Chan.

Randolph-Macon Sig Eps collected $176 throughout the Ashland business district for the Heart Fund.

Rennselaer Tech Sig Eps in borrowed trucks, cruised through the streets of Albany and Troy asking anyone within range of their amplified voices to "Show us your wallet for the Heart Fund." More than $500 was raised in one afternoon. A local car agency furnished trucks and drivers, and collection boxes were donated by a local dairy concern. The mayors of Albany and Troy provided maximum cooperation. The drive, under the chairmanship of Bill McNair, with help from signs chairmen Bob White and Curt Young, called on every brother and pledge to help. Dean David Smith of R.P.I. praised the effort as a shining example.

South Carolina Sig Eps held a Weigh-In at a Columbia shopping center to raise funds for the Heart Fund. In doing so, they won a free party given by a local radio station for the group collecting the most money. This party was donated to the orphans at Carolina Children's Home; brothers and pledges served as hosts.

Sig Eps established a new school tradition by sponsoring a Kill-the-Tiger car smash during a pep rally before the annual Carolina-Clemson football game. An old car, painted to resemble a tiger, was auctioned away and demolished. The proceeds went to sponsor a party for local orphans.

For some years the South Carolina brothers have taken a leading role in support of a variety of community service projects.

The BACKSTOP

■ ORCHIDS AND OLD EGGS

- Orchids to the Penn Sig Eps for winning the first annual award of Pennsylvania's Interfraternity Alumni Council.

The award is given to that fraternity making the most outstanding contribution to the University. The Sig Eps received it for their pioneer speaker program of inviting faculty members to the house for dinner and conversation, for their good scholarship record, and for their fine alumni relations program.

Orchids in a special bouquet for the Penn Sig Ep alumni. The alumni of very few chapters indeed have stood by the undergraduate through the years as have the Penn Delta alumni.

- Orchids to the Long Beach Alumni Chapter for establishing an excellent newsletter, The Spectator. A recent issue presents a roster of the alumni and undergraduate members of the Long Beach State chapter and gives a readable rundown on recent happenings.

■ Orchids also to great idea-hatching department at the West Virginia Tech Sig Ep house. Coinciding with Brother Woody Herman's appearance during Homecoming activities at the school, West Virginia Tech president Leonard C. Nelson, Missouri-Rolla, '49, presented Woody with the Sigma Phi Epsilon Citation.

tion, it should be presented in the way the West Virginia Techs presented it. "Such a procedure is bound to give the Fraternity maximum publicity which should help in rushing."

- Old eggs, or raspberries—to borrow the more authentic term used by the reporter whose comment is quoted below—to a chapter which in this column shall be nameless, even though it might have better effect to name it. Anyway it's good material for a possible new Headquarters publication on "Why a Chapter Dies." Read on:

"Raspberries are in order for the entire active chapter which has demonstrated an exceptional lack of luster for the last year. For them I have devised a new award: the S.L.U.F. Award (Substantial Lack of Underlying Fiber). Some statistics: only one ritual meeting was held during all of last fall semester. There has not been one general work party (actives and pledges) in almost two years; the pledges have done almost all the work on the house (under active 'supervision'). The spring's pledge class consists of 5 (that's right, five) bodies. What's worse, the pledging of any more new men has been left up to last semester's pledges entirely (the actives have refused to initiate them until they bring in 14 new men). Word's out that monetary stipends are being given to any active who brings in a new pledge. As it stands now, I can see no reason why anyone would want to join a group which has to pay its members to get others to join."

- Orchids to the brothers at Virginia who constructed three full-sized outdoor basketball courts for use of all the students of the University. The work was done in conjunction with the intramural department and was conducted by the director of that department, Coach E. R. "Butch" Slaughter. The brothers dedicated the courts with a plaque recording Coach Slaughter's efforts to help the University.

- An old egg for the chapters that have requested Headquarters not to send them bound volumes of the JOURNAL as they have no use for them.

The true fraternity chapter—the chapter that rises to a lofty stature over the years—uses its history for knowledge and inspiration. Through the years, from the day of installation, its achievements as a group and the outstanding accomplishments of its members are chronicled in the JOURNAL. The chapter alumni whose names and pictures appear in the press in connection with some newsworthy exploit likewise appear in the JOURNAL, when the reporting has been faithfully done. In the good chapters the reporting is faithfully done, for there is pride in just accomplishment which is shared by all the brothers.

The good chapters find shelf space for bound volumes of the Fraternity's magazine.

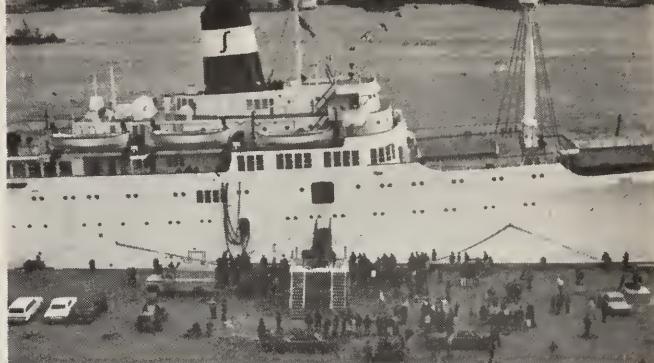

■ Orchids to the thoughtful brothers at Miami (Ohio) who purchased a tape recorder to send to Steve Stryker, '65, in Vietnam. He plans to initiate an exchange program between a Vietnamese school and an American junior high school in which his wife is teaching.

■ DEVOTION UPON EMERGENT OCCASIONS

■ 83,000th Sig Ep is John Cross, initiated at Fort Hays State on February 11. Activated with the highest grades in his pledge class, he is now a member of the rush committee. His home town is Pratt, Kan.

■ The Sig Eps at the University of Evansville are trying to have two bridges across the Ohio River connecting Evansville and Henderson, Ky., dedicated to the men who have died in Vietnam. The president of the Little League in Washington, Ind. sent the brothers a letter commanding them on a fine project. He also said that one day in June would officially be named "Sigma Phi Epsilon Day."

As of this writing, the Sig Eps have the permission of the Kentucky governor, but Indiana's has not yet given an answer.

Stevens Tech's floating residence hall.

■ The luxury liner SS Exchorda recently purchased by Stevens Institute at a cost of $500,000 to serve as a dormitory provides a chapter house annex for 10 Stevens Sig Eps.

Two of the 10 live in a double room, while the other eight have the largest suite on the ship, and all room together in a very well-laid-out study room and four separate sleeping quarters.

The chapter has taken advantage of the situation by holding its New Year's Eve party in the lounges and ballrooms on the ship. The atmosphere of such a location, the magnificent view of the New York skyline, and the layout and furnishing of the ship's interior are quite something.

■ East Carolina's Panhellenic, IFC, eight sororities, and 12 fraternities—Sig Ep among them—all received a special tribute from Dean of Men James Mallory for their part in Operation Santa Claus.

All had joined hands to make Christmas more enjoyable for 608 school children. Every child attending the Sally Branch or Minneola school received from Santa and his many helpers fruit and a large stocking filled with gifts, candy, and toys. It was a most heartwarming sight and created happiness and joy.

■ Alpha Artery of Oklahoma State for the spring semester exemplifies the results of undergraduates and alumni working closely together. Russell Snow as editor of the paper collaborated with George D. Ormiston, the alumni coordinator.

The spring issue reveals the success of the chapter during the past year toward regaining its full strength. Through selective pledging practices started during the year, for the first time in the chapter's history, the fall pledge class grades were above member grades.

In seeking effective principles on which to build their program, chapter leaders could find no better guidelines than the cardinal principles of the Fraternity. These they selected as their administrative theme for 1967-68, the challenges being stated as follows:

VIRTUE: Strengthen our belief in the ideals and Christian principles upon which our Fraternity was founded. Reaffirm our loyalties to church, nation, college or university, society, and the fraternity system.

DILIGENCE: Participate in chapter, district, province, and national fraternity affairs, thereby demonstrating the ideals of Sigma Phi Epsilon as an example of true fraternalism. Build men for leadership through understanding the principles of the ritual and applying them so that all Sig Eps live above the common level.

BROTHERLY LOVE: Appreciate the ties of fraternal love as the unifying force which binds our hearts. Demonstrate our desire that every chapter house should be a home away from home and a place where each member and pledge can learn the true significance of the fraternal relationship.

■ John Mazzone of the Cincinnati chapter, an editor of the campus IFC newspaper, proposes in a recent column that the fraternities become activists in bringing the question of values into the college curriculum. "We must realistically put college in the scope of perspective and value to truly discern what the college experience has to offer," he writes.

He also concludes: "The Greeks must again be the exemplary force to reduce fun and games to their properly subordinate function on campus."

■ Penn Sig Eps in consequence of the annual pledge "visit," are the proud parents of a rooster named Horace.
